Astronauts make 2nd LEM transfer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart transferred into their lunar module (LEM) for the second straight day today as the Apollo 9 astronauts prepared to open the hatches of both spaceships to brave the vacuum of outer space in pressure suits.

But there will be no space walk from one ship to the other because of illness suffered Wednesday by Schweickart, who was considerably better today.

Air Force Col. David R. Scott may poke his head and shoulders out of the command ship hatch to try to retrieve a thermal patch that Schweickart was to have snatched while outside. The patch was fastened to Apollo 9 before launching to test effects of heat and engine firings on various materials.

When the hatches open, McDivitt and Scott are to be plugged into support systems of their respective ships.

Schweickart wears a life-sustaining back pack that will protect astronauts on the moon.

Schweickart and Air Force Col. McDivitt moved through a connecting tunnel from the command ship to the LEM and revved up the systems of the spidery craft which they hope to qualify to land two astronauts on the moon in July.

The LEM performed flawlessly Wednesday, the first time the odd-looking vehicle had been operated in space by man. It receives its most critical test Friday when McDivitt and Schweickart separate it, fly more than 100 miles away and then seek out Scott and the command ship in a celestial game of hide and seek.

Schweickart showed no signs today of the nausea that struck him Wednesday.

Schweickart had two vomiting attacks early Wednesday. He later skipped lunch and said he did not feel up to par.

The rookie spaceman had planned to leave the hatch of the lunar module and move hand-over-hand on railings to enter the hatch of the command module, joining Scott. After a brief rest, he was to have rejoined McDivitt in the still-attached LEM.

Carelessness and dry grass mean trouble

Grass fires can start quickly. The dry grass (upper left) is so dry that dust will rise when it is walked on. Just seconds are needed and it's a blaze (upper right) when a book of matches are dropped into the grass. The barn (bottom) on Robert Vreeland estate at 6100 Vreeland Rd. went up in smoke yesterday due to a grass fire that started around the barn. The fire destroyed baled straw in the barn, but no livestock was endangered.

Grass lots in area Are dry and 'explosive'

The drought-dried grass in the Washtenaw-Livingston County areas has been declared "explosive" by the State Conservation Department.

Lynn Carr, state forest fire officer, said yesterday that all trash burning permits have been canceled for Washtenaw and Livingston Counties.

Grass fires, mostly started by careless trash burning, have plagued the townships of Ypsilanti, Superior, Pittsfield and Augusta.

Superior has asked for extra outdoor lighting so that firemen can work on their equipment at night.

Carr said that there has been only .03 inch of precipitation reported during the entire month of February.

He said that over 2,000 acres had been burned off in Livingston County.

Seen from an airplane, a grassfire forms a dark cloud of smoke with a bright, jagged line of blaze along the leading edge. An air tour of the Ypsilanti area last weekend revealed billows of smoke from one burning area, the length of several fields. All over the area could be seen blackened squares where fields had been burned out in recent weeks.

Carr said almost all the fires endanger a home and farm buildings.

Typical was the grass fire which destroyed a barn at 6100 Vreeland Rd. yesterday. The farm is owned by Robert Vreeland and the tenant is Robert Dole.

Baled straw was destroyed but no livestock were killed. The fire started in the grass and equipment from Ypsilanti and Superior Townships was called.

Pranksters can cause grassfires, too. On Tuesday afternoon, in one area near Ypsilanti, a group of youths were discovered setting small blazes in the dry grass. Sheriff's deputies tried to head off the youths in the field. While the officers were chasing the boys, the youngsters set three more fires.

EMU sets Ad hoc Committees

Joint groups To view demands

Two ad hoc student-faculty administrative committees have been set up at Eastern Michigan University to study black student demands made during recent on-campus demonstrations.

One group will study demands in the instructional area, and the other student affairs demands, according to Dr. Omer Robbins, head of the Faculty Council.

"They will be short-lived committees to make recommendations to be implemented quickly," he said today, adding that initial meetings are scheduled to begin tomorrow.

Among the 11 black student demands are: tuition based on family income; a Negro vice president for minority affairs; establishment of a Malcolm X cultural center; a black studies program and increased percentages of Negro faculty and students at EMU.

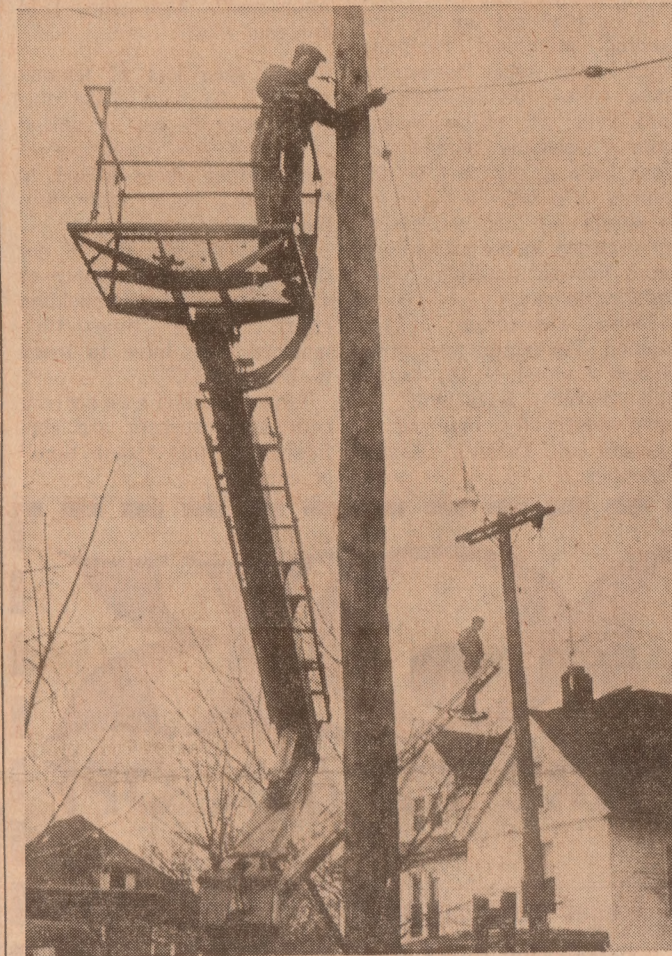

Yesterday the entire EMU faculty ratified its participation in the committees, established Monday in a 3-way conference also including administration and student representatives.

In other action the faculty adopted the following resolution in a near-unanimous vote:

"The Faculty Council believes that it is essential that the University deals directly, honestly and immediately with the black students' demands and that early action be taken.

The Faculty Council — consisting of the chairmen of EMU's 17 departments — also received faculty support in backing a demand from black faculty and staff members: that a 3-man committee from this black group work as an advisory team to EMU President Harold Sponberg.

Senate Approves Regents

Former Gov. George Romney's renomination of two Eastern Michigan University Regents in January received official State Senate approval yesterday.

George E. Stripp and Dr. Richard N. Robb were confirmed in their reappointment to 8-year regents' terms. Stripp, a lawyer, and Dr. Robb, a dentist and city councilman, have served on the EMU board since November, 1967.

Water tastes good:

Miner near rescue

LARK, Utah (AP) — Rescue workers drilled through some 35 feet of rock today and delivered water to a miner trapped nearly five days inside a zinc-lead mine in Northern Utah.

Bill Hawes, one of the rescue workers, said they had given William "Buck" Jones several two-ounce shots of water and hoped to get food to him soon, including bullion, eggnog, coffee and cereal.

"Man that tastes good,"

Jones told the workers after receiving his second drink of water.

Hawes said a light and water in tubes were pushed through the small opening made with a diamond bit.

Hawes said Jones was helping rescue workers by describing his enclosure now that he had some light.

John Bordon, another rescue worker, said Jones was using a wooden pick handle and a part of a drill he had with him to prop up the ceiling and walls of his enclosure to prevent further cave-ins.

Meanwhile other rescue crews, well aware of the extreme danger of cave-ins to both them and the trapped miner, move inch by inch to remove tons of rock and dirt to free him.

Two of Jones' 11 children, Clifford, 30, and Glen, 23, went into the mine late Tuesday and managed to talk with their father for about five minutes.

Clifford told newsmen later that phrases had to be repeated several times because they were talking through the wall of rock.

When asked how long it may be before his father was freed, Clifford said, "It looks like he's in there for quite awhile."

He said his father "has been working to get out of there" and told his sons he had dug down about two feet to enlarge his three foot by three foot cubbyhole.

Jones became trapped at 11 a.m. Saturday 4½ miles inside the mine while working with another miner. There was a cave-in and the coworker jumped free. Jones ducked into a small adjoining tunnel and told his companion he was going to shore up the walls. A second cave-in sealed Jones inside.

Hope of reaching Jones alive had dwindled steadily.

Early Wednesday morning rescuers were amazed to hear him call out: "When are you going to get me out of here?"

Latest Hijacker Arrested

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba announced for the first time today the arrest of an air hijacker but it gave no indication he would be returned to the United States.

Up to now, the government had remained silent as to the disposition of persons who force planes to Cuba.

Reporting on Wednesday's hijacking of a National Airlines jetliner from the United States to Cuba, the Communist party newspaper Granma also took the unprecedented step of identifying the man in custody here as the hijacker.

It said he is Anthony Garnet Bryant. It added he had been arrested in the United States for robbery and traffic in drugs.

Granma reported that Bryant robbed one of the passengers on the jetliner of $1,700 which Cuban officials returned to the owner.

"The author of these acts has been put under arrest in Cuba by competent authorities," Granma said.

Marken's gains New ownership

Marken's Restaurant at 15 W. Michigan Ave., long an eating institution in Ypsilanti, has changed hands.

But the new owner, Demos Panos, says there will be the same good food, the same atmosphere and the same service offered under the former owner, Paul Blok.

Panos also owns Friar Tuck's Pantry, 3201 Washtenaw Ave., another restaurant serving area residents.

Panos said Blok was retiring because of ill health.

He said the restaurant was started 25 years ago by a pair of student attorneys, Mark and Ken, and bears their names. Mr. and Mrs. Blok bought the restaurant more than 12 years ago.

Under Blok's management, the restaurant was remodeled in 1967 with new booths and other facilities to increase space.

Antique gold and tans were used throughout with silk and dacton drapes still emphasizing ing the colonial style. The kitchen was redone with new refrigerators, ovens, air conditioning and stainless steel serving counters.

In 1967, Blok said the restaurant, seating 46 persons at a time, served an average of 350 persons a day, with up to some 600 on some Fridays.

Blok, in the hospital for 23 days after slipping on a parking lot, said the sale came as a surprise. Realtors came to the hospital and said they had a buyer, Blok said.

"I sold because my wife, Mary, and I had been working from 14 to 16 hours a day. We did all our own cooking and baking and now Mary was having to do it all," Blok stated.

Blok said he is now recovered and that he and his wife are planning on a 4-to-6 week vacation in Florida, Texas, California and North Dakota.

Blok said he is giving the new owner all his recipes.

Tenants' Union claims Biggest campus strike

By NANCY ABNER
Of The Press Staff

ANN ARBOR — Six desks crammed into a small room on the University of Michigan campus, a student "task force" working day and night — this is the nerve center of the 1,600-strong Tenant's Union in Ann Arbor.

The student group began rent strike operations Feb. 14 against the city's "big 12" landlords, and according to round-the-clock workers, the effort for housing reforms will run through late summer or early fall.

A rent strike of this proportion is virtually without precedent on a college campus, union organizers claim. Prior strike movements have been mainly confined to urban ghettos and public housing units, according to Detroit attorney Ronald Glotta, chief legal counsel for the Ann Arbor group.

Steering Committee Coordinator Peter Denton sees a tenant's union concept, coupled with a mass rent strike, as a new type of student activism that will probably spread to other campuses.

"People are not willing to hitch their wagon to a shooting star of crisis, but care about the long-term 'nitty-gritty' of ethics," he stated.

Among the union's goals are: rent reduction, elimination of damage deposits, free parking for each apartment and determination of a leases' length by the leasee.

Movement to get a tenant's union started at U-M started late last fall, when an 11-man steering committee plus an additional 100 "organizers" sought to unite students on a common source of campus discontent — high rents and poor housing conditions.

Initially the Union was endorsed by a cross-section of student groups, "ranging from the Young Republicans to Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)," stated Denton. However, he added that SDS later withdrew its support from the movement, terming it a "bourgeois reaction."

Representatives of Ann Arbor apartment rental and management companies have generally withheld any comment on their position in regard to the rent strike.

Noting that landlords as a group have received "generally unfavorable publicity," a spokesman for Apartments Limited, Inc., one of the city's largest rental operations—said today that "the situation does not warrant a statement from our office."

While the University has adopted a "hands-off" position towards the strike, Tenants' Union efforts have gained support locally — most notably from the Ann Arbor housing department and the city's Democratic Party.

In its platform for the upcoming municipal elections April 7, Ann Arbor Democrats have called for stricter enforcement of city housing laws — housing code violations form a key part of the union's "case" against landlords — and university involvement in providing more low-rent multiple housing for students.

Three Democratic City Council candidates — Mrs. Robert Caddell, J. L. Curry and Nicolas Kazarinoff — have specifically come out in support of Tenants' Union activities.

"The Tenants' Union has come about because something else has fallen down," contends Mrs. Caddell, terming the movement a result of past laxity in enforcing housing laws for multiple units.

City housing department personnel have also demonstrated a willingness to investigate specific housing code violations cited by the strike participants, including one "pay up or get out" tactic employed by the Arbor Management Co. — shutting off tenants' heat — which violates the city law.

According to Steering Committee member Stuart Katz, the union hopes to win some of its court cases by citing housing code violations and/or alleged lease contract violations by landlords.

Katz said that an "anti-trust" defense is also being contemplated, which would assert that landlords are acting in collusion to determine rent prices and contract stipulations.

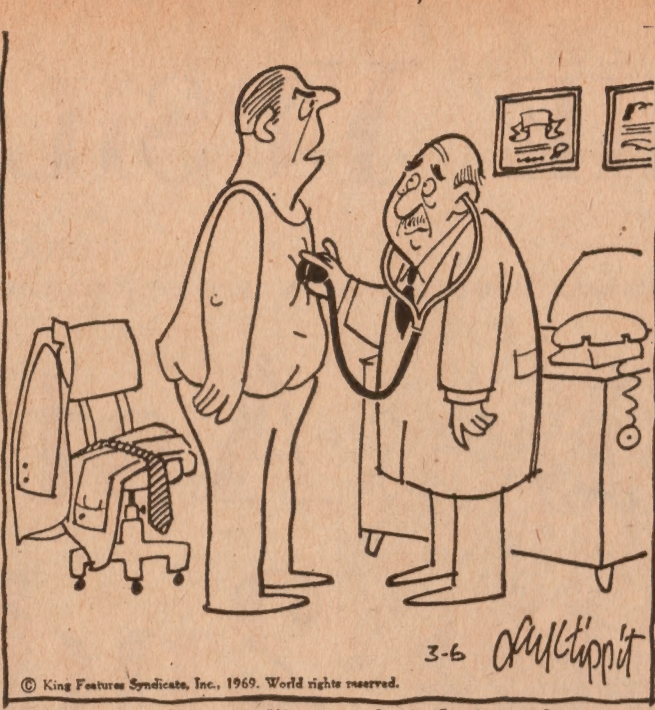

Tenants' Union attorney Glotta, who has worked with rent strikes in Detroit, said yesterday that he was "quite impressed" with the U-M students' effort.

"I've seen lots of tenants groups," he said, "and this is certainly the best organized ... They are responsive to the tenants, have talked to them and know their problems."

Glotta contends that if not this rent strike, certainly at a subsequent rent withholding effort, "some time the landlords will have to listen to the students."

Tenants' Union steering committee workers are confident that this "some time" is now.

Romulus Twp. picks Site for civic center

ROMULUS — A 17-acre site at Wayne and Goddard roads has been selected for a recently approved municipal office building and public library complex as part of a 4-building civic center development here.

The Romulus Township building authority earlier this week approved plans for the office facility and library. A police station and community center is scheduled to complete the project.

Township Clerk Alfred J. Perry reports that the authority is presently awaiting approval for bonding $1.98 million, designated to finance the offices and library. He says that it will probably take three months before the bonds can be sold.

Perry said the township board has agreed to enter a contract with the authority in order to lease the new buildings while a local corporation of officials has been formed to construct the new facilities.

The proposed new office building is to house the township's administrative offices and a new district court.

Wayne Jaycees get Trash bag franchise

WAYNE — The Jaycees were given approval by the City Council to take over the sale of plastic refuse bags from the city.

The council stipulated that the Jaycees should sell the heavier 2-mill bags rather than the 1½-mill liners originally proposed by them for sale under their statewide Jaycee program. The Jaycees will take telephone orders for the trash liner bags and deliver them to the residents throughout the city at a cost of $5.25 per 100.

The city will continue to make the bags available at the city hall until their current supply is exhausted.

UR pace is 'good' Wayne council told

WAYNE — The City Council heard a progress report from its sub-committee liaison team of Mayor Kenneth A. McKay and Mayor Pro-Tem Patrick J. Norton on the status of Metro Place, Inc., plans for the R-54 downtown urban renewal project.

Mayor McKay and Norton both expressed optimism at a meeting this week that Metro Place was making good progress in its downtown development plans. They reported meetings have been scheduled for the balance of this week by Metro Place with several prospective tenants for the downtown 77-acre development.

The National Bank of Detroit, it was pointed out last night, is very close to making final commitments on property adjacent to the Wayne Rd. area.

Mayor McKay and Norton stated they will be meeting with the developers at every possible opportunity in the interests of keeping the council informed on the R-54 progress.

'Multiples' Opposed By Council

WAYNE —The City Council went on record this week as being opposed to any plan to develop the Glenwood Heights area with other than single family homes.

The approximately 100 acres of land in the northwest corner is considered the last remaining residentially zoned area suitable for "first class" home development.

City Manager Wallace G. Arrowsmith said, in answer to claims regarding the position taken by the proposed developer and landowner, that "every subdivision developed in this city was first thought to be 'economically unfeasible' for single family homes alone. But all were developed as single family subdivisions and the homes have increased in value over the years."

City Planner Richard L. Riley had reported to the council that the proposal to build apartments and single family homes under a "planned unit" development ordinance would have called for reducing lot sizes and increasing population density.

This zoning is the city's highest residential zoning category and calls for single family homes on minimum 100-foot lots.

Mayor swap Is scheduled

WAYNE —The City Council was informed at their regular meeting this week that arrangements have been worked out to have the city exchange mayor with the City of Muskegon this year during Michigan Week in May.

Muskegon is also celebrating its centennial in 1969 and city officials hope that the mayor's exchange program will be able to equally benefit both communities.

Wayne was originally scheduled to exchange mayor with nearby Southgate, but had requested of the Michigan Week committee to arrange an exchange with another city celebrating a centennial.

the topic "An English Librarian Looks at the Library World."

Dinner reservations must be received by 5 p.m. tomorrow by Gene Holtman, Eastern Michigan University Library, or Doris Asher or Jim Crooks, University of Michigan Library.

At Ann Arbor site:

Nursery re-settled

Pre-schoolers from the former WRAND Day Care Center, displaced persons twice in two weeks, have now found a "permanent" temporary day nursery at the Bethlehem United Church of Christ in Ann Arbor.

The church agreed to let the County Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) Agency use its Sunday School class facilities Tuesday after Mrs. William A. Papineau, owner of Cherry Hill Nursery, turned the children away because of inadequate health records.

The WRAND Center was closed last week after receiving an eviction notice from Metropolitan Memorial Baptist Church in Ypsilanti. Since then, administration and financing of the day care center have been taken over by OEO.

The Ann Arbor Church has agreed to house up to 20 WRAND children for one month. During this time the County OEO will conduct a county-wide canvass to determine what type, if any, day care program should be offered to the area's poor.

According to Mrs. Beverly Poindexter, the County OEO agency's director, two teachers and two aides from the former WRAND Center have been retained as supervisory staff at Bethlehem Church.

Mrs. Poindexter said that the day care facilities at the church is very adequate, adding that the church's charge for use of classrooms, a kitchen and a gymnasium is "really minimal... it's almost a gift."

The church may also be interested in negotiating for housing a permanent day care center on a long-range basis, she indicated.

Although the bulk of WRAND children come from the Willow Run area, Mrs. Poindexter said that transportation to Ann Arbor presents no great problem to her agency. "It just adds a few minutes to the trip," she stated.

Legion celebrates 50 years service

"Fifty years of service for God and country" was celebrated last night by Ypsilanti Post No. 282 of the American Legion at the Legion home on S. Huron St.

B. Johnson, and his birthday celebration chairman, Charles Fender, headed the ceremonies.

Others working on the event were Robert Wadke, R. C. Starr, James Madigan, Floyd Hiler, Tom Van Sickle, William Short, James Durando and Harry Smith.

American flags were presented to area Boy Scout groups by George E. Stripp, the post Americanism chairman, who also was the main speaker.

Mayor John H. Burton had proclaimed yesterday as "American Legion Day."

The meeting was followed by refreshments served by the Ladies Auxiliary.

The Legion was founded by members of the American Expeditionary Force in Paris immediately after World War I.

The state commander of the Legion, Wayne Squire, was present.

Guests included State Rep. Roy Smith, Ypsilanti Township Supervisor Fred H. Lunde, District Judge Edward D. Deake and Police Chief Ray H. Walton.

Artist's 'book'

Is a $250 item

Five intaglio and relief color prints by Ruth Weisberg have turned an edition of the 17th century poem "To m O'Bedlam's Song" into a collectors' item that will sell for $250 when it is released later this month by the Kelyn Press in Ann Arbor.

The five prints depicting people, architecture and landscapes from the poem are signed and numbered in a limited edition of 40. They are removable from the book and suitable for framing, four of them measuring 10" by 15" with the last somewhat smaller.

Miss Weisberg, an assistant professor of art at Eastern Michigan University, has participated in many local and national exhibitions. She will be honored with a 1-man show opening March 30 at the Pollack Gallery in Toronto, and is included in an invitational print exhibition currently at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"Tom O'Bedlam's Song" will be on display in the University Library in late April.

TB test Approvals Are urged

Parents of 9th grade students are urged by the County Health Department to sign request cards authorizing administration of tuberculin (TB) tests to their children this month.

The Annual School T B Testing Program, sponsored by the health department, will run from March 10-26.

TB testing is recommended at the 9th grade level because test results are indicative of the disease's proportions within a particular community.

The TB skin test — free of charge — will be administered in the following area schools:

March 10 — Milan and Saline High Schools.

March 24 — West Junior High School, Roosevelt High School, St. John's High School.

March 25 — East Junior High School, Lincoln Consolidated High School and Willow Run High School.

Turner of Turner Realty, and as associate members, David Hazelwood, Mrs. Martha Trove, Mrs. Clara VanWinkle, and Mrs. Alma Hensley, all of McCaslin Real Estate, and Joseph McCollough, and Joseph McCollough, and John Simpkins of Klemm Real Estate.

The festival is a prelude to the state festival where bands that received top ratings will perform April 26.

Racine said that the Ypsilanti band will be competing with 18 other class A bands. Area bands in that classification also include Ann Arbor Pioneer, Willow Run, Westland John Glenn, Garden City East and West Garden.

Schweickart's suit and back pack are identical to those astronauts will wear on the moon, and officials want to test them on Apollo 9 before committing men to a lunar landing.

Christopher C. Kraft Jr., director of flight operations, said the space walk was not essential to a moon landing. The purpose of assigning it to Schweickart was to demonstrate that man can transfer from the LEM to the command ship in case of an emergency.

Kraft said it was more important to have the crew rested for a critical rendezvous and docking Friday.

McDivitt and Schweickart are to separate the LEM, fly 109 miles away and then seek out Scott in the command ship. They will thus maneuver like the two astronauts who will launch themselves from the moon to rejoin the mother ship in lunar orbit.

Their overnight rest period lasted nearly 10 hours until mission control roused the astronauts a few minutes before 6 a.m. EST to start another work day.

"This comes mighty early, doesn't it?" a ground communicator remarked by way of greeting.

"Yeah—it's still dark outside, too," rejoined one of the astronauts, who at that point was passing over the mercury shipping station in the South Pacific.

Doctors were puzzled over Schweickart's nausea. He is an experienced pilot. But they said he had a history of a nervous stomach and that he had taken motion sickness pills before and after the launching.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief astronaut physician, prescribed other pills to quiet his intestinal tract. Berry said there would be a danger of suffocation if Schweickart became ill and vomited in his pressure suit during a space walk.

Despite the illness, Schweickart was able to perform complex tasks in the LEM for more than seven hours Wednesday.

Officials reported all systems in the spider-like craft functioned perfectly, including a six-minute firing of the engine designed to brake a later LEM to a lunar landing.

As the astronauts bedded down Wednesday night, ground control radioed congratulations on their checkout of the LEM.

"Everybody down here is happy with the way the day has gone and wants to congratulate you for an outstanding job," the message read.

1-cent Gas hike General

A 1-cent increase in the price of gasoline today had become general in the Ypsilanti area.

Dealers in Gulf, Marathon, Mobil and Sunoco gasolines confirmed that prices to them had been increased up to 1.5 cents per gallon.

The gasoline companies said the price hikes were the result of recent strike settlements with the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

Five other firms — Standard, Pure, Phillips, Texaco and Cities Service — already had announced similar price increases.

In Detroit, spokesmen for Shell, Clark, Martin and Sinclair meanwhile said their firms had not raised prices.

Petition Support Is denied

The President of Ypsilanti's NAACP chapter today disavowed any support of his group of a petition supporting police action during recent Eastern Michigan University demonstrations.

According to NAACP President Douglas Harris, Jaycee President John N. Kirkendall's statement yesterday that the petition being circulated had been approved by a "prominent member of the executive board of the local NAACP" (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) did not represent any official approval by the NAACP.

Harris said today no NAACP executive board member was given the authority to speak on behalf of the civil rights' organization concerning the petition.

He added that Kirkendall has refused to name the NAACP board member.

According to Harris, any NAACP member who approved the petition was "acting on his own."

High schools To participate In model U.N.

Students from Ypsilanti, Belleville and Saline High Schools will participate in a "model" United Nations assembly tomorrow and Saturday at Hillsdale College.

The event will bring together 230 selected students from 77 high schools in Michigan and northern Ohio for two days of debate.

Major issues include the Arab-Israeli dispute, disarmament, Soviet action in Czechoslovakia, apartheid in South Africa, uses of ocean seabeds and pollution of the air, earth and seas. Each school will be designated as a "nation."

Representing Ypsilanti High School (Lebanon) will be Mogens Nielson, Louise Magoon, Linda Foster, Advisor will be Richard Martelle.

From Saline (Laos) will be Jerry Lake, Liza Collins, Mary Livensparger. The advisor will be Donna VanRaaphorst.

From Belleville (Ethiopia) will be Rick Emerson, Lee Schmidt and Karen Grodi. Emil Jones will be the advisor.

State Senate sets City riot authority

LANSING (AP) — The state Senate Wednesday passed a controversial measure giving local authorities limited powers to declare states of emergency in situations where riot is imminent and the governor is not in the state.

Opponents said the bill "manifests a horse-and-buggy psychology" and could be unconstitutional.

The vote was 26-10.

The bill — a toned-down version of one vetoed last year by former Gov. George Romney — empowers local units of government to enact ordinances authorizing their officials to set curfews and prohibit sale of alcohol, gasoline and arms.

Included is the provision, termed "essential" by Gov. William Milliken, that no state of emergency be proclaimed at the local level any time the governor is within the state and available to take action himself.

Senate Minority Leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley, who led the fight against the bill, said the provision made the bill "meaningless."

"There is always a person in the state with the governor's powers," Levin said, citing constitutional provisions for succession of power.

He suggested the measure may be unconstitutional in that legislators do not have the right to limit the exercise of the constitutionally provided ed succession. Levin cited a "horse-and-buggy psychology," saying that years ago it may not have been possible to communicate state problems to a governor who was outside the state.

"But there's not a single reason now why he can't be kept abreast of problems," Levin said.

"Instead of looking to the actual needs of the people, this bill looks to the galleries," he said.

"This bill makes good public relations," said Sen. John McCauley, D-Wyandotte. "It makes good talk when you go back to the district. But it's bad for the people of the state."

Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, chief sponsor of the measure, maintained that it restricted local authorities rather than giving them additional power. The bill, he pointed out included a model ordinance authorizing local powers and could eliminate any "hodge podge" of different curfews.

The measure now faces action in the House, where observers predicted its defeat.

Meanwhile, Sen. James Fleming, R-Jackson, introduced a constitutional amendment proposal designed to limit the use of state highway funds exclusively to "highway construction, maintenance and administration."

Existing law restricts use of these funds to "highway purposes as defined by law."

Controversy developed recently over a proposal by Milliken to divert $1.6 million from the highway fund to the State Police for the patrolling of state highways.

"I am not against more money for State Police highway patrols," Fleming said. "But I am strongly opposed to raising the highway construction fund for this purpose."

Teen musicians Talent show set

Do you practice your piano or violin everyday? Would you like to get a chance to perform and compete for a prize?

Omega Psi Phi, a service and social fraternity at Eastern Michigan University, is providing such an opportunity at its fourth annual talent show set for 3 p.m. Sunday, March 16th at West Junior High School.

Competition is open to students from grades nine through twelve in schools throughout the Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor areas.

Performances are limited to classical music, instrumental and vocal. The contest is open to soloists only.

Sidney Moore, spokesman for the fraternity, said the project's aim is to provide an appreciative listening audience for the teenagers. He said the winner in their 1968 competition is now at EMU as a music major.

The first prize is a $50 savings bond, the second prize a $25 bond, and the third prize is $15 in cash.

A trio of judges will determine the prize-winners and also provide critiques on performances and evaluation of potentials.

Mrs. Barbara Ferrari, an Ypsilanti teacher and Robert Elliott, an Ann Arbor teacher will be judges. The third judge has not been determined.

The winner of this competition will represent the area in a district music meet with performers from Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, and Wisconsin as well as throughout the state.

Any interested persons may call Moore at 663-6026 or T. R. Meadows at 971-1364 for further information.

'Families and Dynamics' Talk slated at Eastern

A lecture entitled "Families and Dynamics" will be presented by Eastern Michigan University Associate Professor of Family Education Madeleine Lloyd on Saturday at McKenny Union.

The program is to be in the Alumni Lounge and will begin at 9 a.m.

Sponsored by the EMU Institute of Teachers of Disadvantaged Youth, the program will be open to any interested educators.

Dr. Lloyd has been on the Eastern faculty since 1963.

She is a graduate of Montclair State College and Columbia University and she previously has served as director of parent education at the Child Guidance Clinic in Paterson, N.J. ## Labor report

Nixon, Meany still 'going steady'

By Victor
Riesel
Press
Special
Writer

WASHINGTON — Well, it seems that Richard Nixon and George Meany (Mr. Labor himself) are going steady, and their romance may last right through the 1972 election.

This report truly is based on some political peepholing and not on what the rocklike, laconic chief of the union of unions is saying publicly.

He was asked if Sen. Muskie would make a good presidential candidate and Mr. Meany replied:

"I'm sure he would — along with others. I may even support Nixon in 1972. It all depends on what happens."

Though he said this at a public gathering to a room full of questioners, though he had tongue and cigar in cheek, he may well have meant it.

What's more important is what this powerful and generally unquestioned leader of 14 million workers is saying politically privately.

It has not, for example, been reported that behind the closed doors of the latest joint session of the movement's political administrative committee and the AFL-CIO Executive Council, he cut down sharply one national union leader who suggested that labor jump in and save the wrecked Democratic Party.

This happened during the Wednesday morning session on Feb. 19 in one of the Hotel Americana's conference rooms, during the high command's midwinter session in Bal Harbour, Fla.

There had been a series of reappraisals of the 1968 presidential election and reports on the programming for the 1970 Congressional campaigns delivered by Mr. Meany and his political aide-de-camp, fire-breathing Al Barkan, head of the Committee On Political Education (COPE).

Suddenly there arose the generally silent William Pollock, president of the Textile Workers Union. The time had come, said he, to come to the aid of the Democratic Party. He added that "we must reorganize the Democratic Party." He spoke of the need for rebuilding it after the disintegration of the state machinery almost everywhere.

Mr. Meany bristled. And in private, he is the roughest bristler of all. In effect, he said:

I have no intention of reorganizing anybody or anything. We are a labor movement. We are nonpartisan. I have no intention of getting involved in any party.

When the labor chief says it to his own people behind closed doors, and when it rips out spontaneously, it is the formulation of labor's policy.

Therefore, this is to be interpreted not as a momentary outburst, but as the reflection of Mr. Meany's hostility toward the front-running Democratic Party leaders.

It was Mr. Meany who almost alone swung Hubert Humphrey into the campaign and then held the line (along with the labor men now known as the Loyal Order of Buffalo) at the Chicago convention. It was COPE, chaired by Mr. Meany, whose splendid, well-financed, high-gear computerized campaign almost won for Mr. Humphrey.

Mr. Meany and some of his intimate colleagues believe Mr. Humphrey's defeat resulted not alone from the McCarthy assault, but also from the lethargy of men supposedly in the Humphrey camp. Now those very men, as the labor chiefs see it, are attempting to reform and reorganize the party.

There is no great fraternal sentiment inside labor for such men — Sen. McGovern, the auto union's bearded Paul Schrader, or even Sen. Ted Kennedy — though the union chiefs mostly are fond of the man from Massachusetts.

"It's not Ted, it's those around him, such as Schrader and Schlesinger whom he'll bring in," says one of labor's inner circle of high policy makers.

"There's more than a matter of domestic policy. Few outsiders realize how important foreign affairs are to us and how strongly 'the old boy' feels about international relations. We're a lot closer to Dick Nixon on foreign policy than we are to the Democratic Party's reorganizers."

So apparently, the Democratic National Committee will have to do without Mr. Meany's backing. This doesn't mean that COPE will sit this one out. It has launched its 1970 campaign to reelect 21 liberal senators and to attempt to defeat New York's Republican Sen. Goodell — probably with Ambassador Arthur Goldberg.

COPE plans to spend about a million dollars this year on registration alone. And another million next year. This in addition to the actual campaigning "for our liberal friends who have stayed with us through all our crises, like 14B..."

But Mr. Meany — and that means the AFL-CIO — isn't tying the movement to any party. He's not about to permit himself to be taken for granted. Nor will he take for granted that the Republican White House is automatically out. He likes Mr. Nixon's non-interference policy (no official public move into the dock strike, for example).

And the labor leader knows, as he predicted privately to some friends the other day, there will be no legislation urged by Mr. Nixon which the movement believes restrictive.

So, for what it's worth to the new administration and "the movement," they're going steady.

Our viewpoint

Public attention focused On 'problem' of drug use

A storm of indignant protest has arisen from a local school in the wake of stories Monday emanating from a meeting of some 75 persons concerned with possible use and abuse of drugs, dope and pills. But the indignation and furor may have missed the point.

The use of pills and dope sadly have become too commonplace across America — including the Ypsilanti area. The extent of the problem can not be accurately defined, and therein lies some of the opposition from those unaware of possible dope usage who proudly insist, "it can't happen here."

No matter how tiny, the problem does exist in the community, authorities say. It is not widespread enough to be considered a threat to society, nor is it widespread in the public schools, most people agree. But the fact that enough parents feel personally concerned to initiate action is warning enough. One area school district became aware of what an official termed "a growing problem" a year ago and took remedial action.

It evidently is a safe statement that 99 per cent of the students at East Junior High and other schools have no concern nor connection with drug abuse. But it is the other 1 per cent that parents and authorities alike are concerned with, trying to eliminate entirely or at least keep in check that tiny portion of our youth while at the same time protecting the responsible 99 per cent.

No matter how small the drug problem is, here or elsewhere, it is too big. The causes are many, but the main contributing factor has to be parental control and direction, or the lack of it, aided by inadequate means of enforcement and a general breakdown in society which in too many quarters condones use of drugs and which subsists throughout life on pills, from children's aspirin to pep pills and pot.

If nothing else, the local situation has brought the problem to the attention of the public, where hopefully the problem can be controlled and kept tiny and perhaps eliminated.

No finger has been pointed at East Junior High nor its pupils; it was aimed at a problem which shouldn't be allowed to exist anywhere, to any degree.

Coincidentally, and perhaps ironically, The Press on Monday will begin running a series on "Guarding Your Teen-ager Against Drugs." The series, written by the noted science editor of the Associated Press and approved by medical and law enforcement experts, was ordered a month ago and scheduled to begin next week. As a public service The Press and the AP will offer readers a 48-page illustrated booklet, "What You Should Know About Drugs and Narcotics," to complement the series.

Kennedy questions wisdom Of an all-volunteer military

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Ever so gently, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is alerting President Nixon and his advisers to a politically explosive argument against an all-volunteer army: it could become a force of mostly black mercenaries.

Mr. Nixon and his aides could well be unaware of this complaint against the volunteer army idea. Like most of the presidential aspirants of the recent past, candidate Nixon embraced the politically attractive volunteer concept while he was campaigning for the White House.

Unlike other presidential winners, however, Mr. Nixon has not yet backed away from the all-volunteer idea. He wants to institute a volunteer army, and keep the draft as stand-by, when the Vietnam war has ended and the manpower demands of the armed services are not so great.

In a speech proposing draft reforms, however, Kennedy has aired his own misgivings.

He says his talks with high school and college students convince him that student advocates of a volunteer army would not, themselves, volunteer.

"This suggests," says Kennedy, "the strong possibility that an all-volunteer army might magnify the present economic inequality in the draft — that our soldiers would come from the lower economic classes, and might well form a largely black army."

"This would serve only to increase the separation between the military and civilian sectors of our society."

Kennedy advanced another argument against the volunteer army too. He asked a couple of witnesses whether they would rather spend the additional cost of a volunteer army (estimated from $4 billion to $17 billion a year by the Pentagon) on education, rehabilitating slums, job retraining, health programs and the like.

The draft reform bill, offered by Kennedy with eight other senators, would set up the kind of draft priorities advocated since 1967 by President Johnson, among others. Nineteen-year-olds would be called first, and under a new lottery-like random selection plan.

However, the Kennedy bill would also require uniform national standards for classification and deferment so that young men across the nation would face equal exposure to military service. The bill would also discontinue student deferments during periods when U.S. battle casualties had been 10 per cent of inductions for three months.

Another feature of the bill would provide a study, by a group of distinguished Americans, of possible amnesty for the thousands of young men who have fled from the draft to seek asylum abroad. Kennedy notes that an amnesty was provided by President Washington for participants in the Whisky Rebellion and by President Andrew Johnson for Southerners in 1868.

EJH principal supports students

TO THE EDITOR:

Freedom of the press implies responsibility. The article in Monday night's Press was without foundation in fact and demonstrated a lack of responsibility. It labeled (some) students of East Junior High, both white and black, as users of drugs and frequently engaging in physical violence. All of these allegations are without fact. The story angered a student body and a faculty...

In a community and a school which is putting forth great efforts to overcome racial misunderstanding, it would appear the reporter was determined to undermine the work which has been done to date. At no time in the past has the press ever been denied access to the facts concerning any situation at East Junior High School. We have nothing to hide.

I wish to go on record in support

Students protest stories on drugs

(Editor's Note: Following are letters from students at East Junior High School concerning stories Monday on "Drugs use, abuse" in area schools).

TO THE EDITOR

We the students of East Junior High would like to express our opinion on an article which appeared in your paper March 3.

We would like to state that the meeting about an incident at East Junior High which was attended by approximately 75 persons was not publicized enough and therefore more concerned parents, students and members of the community could not attend. We feel that the opinion of these 75 persons are not valid enough to accuse East Junior High or any other school of peddling or harvesting marijuana or other drugs without any proof...

We would like also to mention that any "pills" dropped into soft drinks at parties were of their personal status, not dances held at school. "Pills" was never clearly defined. As far as the public knows you could be talking about Fizzies!

E.J.H. Student Council
Marilyn Apland

Student protests distortion of facts

I, as a student of East Junior High School, feel that the article printed in the paper portrayed only one side; the facts were distorted, and the school was made to look bad.

From what I gather from the article, the meeting was only publicized to certain people, as to make it a one-sided discussion. Several members of the faculty of East, to whom I have talked, stated they knew nothing of the meeting. It should have been publicized so that more concerned people could have attended.

In quoting the mother about "stuff" and "pills", "stuff" and "pills" of the student body of East Junior High and all of their fine accomplishments. They are a great group of young people who living in the family of East Junior High have a great loyalty to one another and to their school. They are outreaching in their concern for others through their support of an orphan in Vietnam, support of the Hospital Ship Hope, sending of Christmas gifts to men in service and many other worthwhile projects.

As parents and faculty we do not focus our concern on the occasional misunderstandings which our children have. Misunderstanding is a common experience of all human kind. We are concerned for the kind of adults they become. It is here that the staff of East Junior High places its emphasis because this is what is important.

Alvin Joslyn, Principal
East Junior High School

I think you people are making a great mistake by putting that in the paper about East Junior High students taking drugs. There might be a few students taking drugs, but not in school.

Sue Ann Molik

I, as a student of East Junior High School, strongly feel that an apology is due to the Student Body and faculty. The article in The Press was unfair to us.

April Jackson

I think what you wrote in The Press yesterday was untrue. I know it is. I think that you should come down to the school and apologize to the faculty and students. The persons you got the information from did not tell the truth.

Keith George

I, a student of East Junior High School, am one of the many students who disliked your article about drugs being used in our school. It sounded like we are all using drugs.

Probably 75 per cent of the students in East don't know what a drug looks like, let alone know what it is... like, let alone know what it is...

John Harding

Just because narcotics are at the universities it is irrelevant to them being at junior highs. May I call your attention to the fact that there is a large difference between narcotics and sleeping pills which were involved in one incident.

East Junior High is just an average school, with a bunch of good students, eager to learn.

Cheryl Waldenmyer

Looking Backward

20 YEARS AGO

March 6, 1949 — Administrative staff, faculty, and students of Ypsilanti High School are finding it difficult to keep full concentration on the 3 R's this week as final preparations in music, art, journalism, speech and commercial classes are made for Centennial activities beginning March 14.

The Gay Nineties theme in exhibits, colorful decorations, orchestral and choral numbers together with historical pageantry will highlight the week's Centennial activities.

More than 300 farmers and business men of the Ypsilanti area were brought together for the annual "Town and Country Luncheon" as part of the third post war Farmers Institute at Lincoln Consolidated School recently.

50 YEARS AGO

March 6, 1919 — The first meeting of the Newboys Club was held at the Junior High School Wednesday afternoon when leader Owen Cleary explained the purpose of the organization and outlined the activities that would be carried on.

An attempt will be made to organize the "Old Newsboys" of the city into a plan for raising funds for the treasury of the new club.

All older boys and men who ever sold or peddled papers in the past will be called upon some day this spring to sell papers on the street to raise money.

75 YEARS AGO

March, 1894 — Sheriff Brenner has appointed Stanton J. Ferguson a deputy sheriff, making seven deputies now for this city.

The others are: Zina Bach, George Palmer, James Euton, Charles Root, Albert Smith and S. M. Duggan.

It ought to go hard with evil doers here now.

Autobahn Closed 6th time

West Berliners Await reprisal

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany closed the main autobahn between West Berlin and East Germany again today for the sixth day in a row, West Berlin border officers reported, even though the election of the West German president in Berlin was over.

A West Berlin customs officer said one lane at the West Berlin end had been left open, apparently for vehicles of the U.S. British and French garrisons, but it was not known if any had gone through.

The East Germans could be trying to give credence to their claim that periodic closing of the autobahn is necessary because of Warsaw Pact maneuvers in the area.

Meanwhile, West Berliners and others were asking why the Communists hadn't done more to interfere with the uneventful presidential election. There were no sonic booms from East German MIGs over the West Berlin hall in which the Federal Assembly elected Gustav Heinemann, a 69-year-old Socialist. There was no barrage of propaganda leaflets, no buzzing of Western airliners en route to Berlin and not even the massive demonstrations threatened by West Berlin's militant New Left.

Instead, after weeks of Communist warnings that the election could not be held in Berlin without "grave measures" of reprisal, the East Germans closed the roads between the city and West Germany while 1,021 members of the West German Federal Assembly elected Heinemann to be president for the next five years.

It was the most serious infringement on Berlin access routes in years. But there was no report of any tampering with the air corridors used by the presidential electors to go to and from the city. That would have brought an immediate confrontation between the Russians and the Americans, British and French.

Some diplomatic observers said they thought Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin decided to put a damper on saber-rattling East German leader Walter Ulbricht so as to improve the climate for future negotiations with the Nixon administration.

Heinemann, West Germany's justice minister, was elected to the largely ceremonial presidency on the third ballot, and the election took 8½ hours. He defeated Defense Minister Gerhard Schroeder, a Christian Democrat, by a vote of 512-506.

U.S. casualties Jump to 453, Most since May

SAIGON (AP) — U.S., South Vietnamese and enemy casualties jumped to their highest level since last May during the first week of the Viet Cong's current spring offensive, the allied commands announced today.

The U.S. Command said 453 Americans were killed last week and 2,593 were wounded, with 1,051 of the latter hospitalized. The number of dead was nearly triple the previously weekly average for 1969 and was the highest American toll since the week of May 12-18, 1968, when 549 were killed and 2,282 were wounded during another big enemy offensive.

The Saigon government reported 521 of its men killed, while the allied commands said at least 6,752 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese died in the first seven days of the enemy's new drive on South Vietnamese towns and allied military installations.

The U.S. Command said the weekly casualty report raised the total number of Americans killed in combat in Vietnam to 32,376, including 9,425 since preliminary peace talks began in Paris last May 13. Of the latter number, 2,319 died after South Vietnam agreed on Dec. 7 to join the talks.

U.S. headquarters said at least 457,132 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have been killed since Jan. 1, 1961, when the United States entered the war.

The South Vietnamese government also reported 208 civilians killed and 677 wounded during the first seven days of the enemy offensive last week. The toll continued to rise today as Saigon was hit by the most devastating shelling in the offensive so far. Heavy rockets smashed into a densely populated slum, killing at least 25 civilians and wounding more than 70. Most of the dead were children.

The rocket barrage crashed in less than 24 hours after President Nixon warned that the United States would not tolerate the continuation of such attacks. However, the shelling was not believed to be a reply to that warning because the enemy's communications facilities are not thought to be efficient enough to arrange such a quick reaction.

It was the fourth rocket attack on Saigon since the Viet Cong offensive began Feb. 25.

Informed sources said the U.S. Air Force and Navy had a variety of plans ready for retaliation and could resume the bombing of North Vietnam in less than 24 hours if Nixon told them to. But the President indicated Tuesday night he would make no decision until he got a report from Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, due in Saigon later today.

Viet Cong blasts Nixon For civilian suffering

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong defended its shelling of civilian centers in South Vietnam today and made a new attack on President Nixon.

The shelling dominated the seventh session of the enlarged Vietnam peace talks at the International Conference Center. President Nixon had threatened "some response that will be appropriate" if the shelling continued, but the Viet Cong killed 25 civilians and wounded more than 70 in a rocket attack on Saigon today.

Tran Buu Kiem, the "foreign minister" of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, told the American and South Vietnamese delegations: "We reaffirm once again the sacred and inalienable right to self defense of the armed forces and population of South Vietnam."

He said the U.S. and Saigon governments were making a lot of noise about events in Saigon because they had suffered "stunning defeats."

"The present situation in South Vietnam shows clearly that no maneuvers, no tricks and no threats of the United States and their lackeys can save them from defeat," Kiem said.

"It is truly an illusion to want to achieve a position of strength on the battlefield and at the conference table when one has failed, as the United States has failed, in Vietnam."

Kiem accused Nixon of threatening to "make the Vietnamese people suffer the consequences of their struggle against aggression."

He said that as long as the United States continued its war effort, "the South Vietnamese population will continue to combat aggression in accordance with its perfect right to punish the aggressors wherever they may be and at whatever moment."

Kiem charged that President Nixon is intensifying the war "while pouring out honeyed words of peace." He said the U.S. president's threat of a response to the shelling represented "the words of an aggressor who does not wish to be punished."

As the delegations traded charges in the conference room, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky took off for Saigon, declaring that "if the North Vietnamese continue their criminal action against the Saigon population ... I have no reason to return to Paris."

Ky is the coordinator of the South Vietnamese delegation to the talks although he does not attend the conference sessions.

2 terrorist explosions hit Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — An explosive charge blew up in the cafeteria of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem today, wounding several persons.

Later officials reported a hand grenade was thrown into an Israeli bank in the occupied Arab city of Ramallah, just north of Jerusalem. One customer was injured.

The two explosions came less than two weeks after

Arab terrorists set off a bomb in a Jerusalem supermarket, killing two persons and wounding nine others. Security forces reported Tuesday they had broken up a large Arab terrorist network in the occupied West Bank area, including those responsible for the supermarket bombing.

Officials at the university, which has 12,000 students including 1,000 from the United States, said the explosion occurred shortly before noon as 250 students were crowding into the cafeteria.

The Israeli army reported more sporadic firing today on the banks of the Suez Canal. It said more than half a dozen Israelis have been wounded in the cross-canal shooting that has been going on for the past few weeks. Egypt said two of its soldiers were wounded in small arms exchanges Wednesday.

The army also announced that an Israeli farmer was fatally wounded when his tractor ran over a mine 12 miles southeast of the Gaza Strip.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, suggested Israel scrap Egyptian and Jordanian laws in the Arab territories it occupies and institute its own legal and economic systems.

Swim club Tells agenda

Events for the entire family are featured in the summer schedule for Chippewa Hills Swim Club formulated at a meeting this week. The club will be opening May 7, it was decided, earliest date the club has ever opened and probably one of the earliest for any club.

The club's social committee met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Nancy Quirk on Roosevelt Blvd. and set parties, swimming and tennis meets and other events.

The tenth anniversary of the club is being observed this year, and with the tenth year comes a new emphasis on family activities.

Rather than several smaller kiddie carnivals and the mother-son and father-daughter parties, the club will have a major carnival for entire families, and also two family brunches. A Memorial Day family picnic is slated, also.

Also scheduled are two adult parties, repeating what were termed successes last year. Several teen age parties are tentatively planned, with plans hinging on whether teens indicate a desire for such parties.

Other events for which dates were set are the tennis tournaments, the synchronized swimming show and swimming meets.

Tentative plans were discussed for special guest days at which reduced rates to entertain friends might be offered.

The club's social committee consists of Mrs. Quirk and Richard Wortley, co-chairmen, Sanford J. (Bud) Dornbos, club manager, Mrs. Thomas M. Sawyer of Ann Arbor, president of the club's board of directors, and Mrs. Hershall Pyle.

The club is located on Goldside Dr., north of Washtenaw Ave. and has both tennis and swimming activities. It has 400 member families. The club now has 25 member families on the waiting list and expects to absorb them by opening.

Apples, tiles may aid Tiny tot to understand

Inexpensive things such as apples, tiles and spoons may be used by parents with limited incomes to teach their toddlers ideas such as size and relationship.

Education for these tots should begin at a very young age, and the equipment needn't be expensive, educators at a workshop at Eastern Michigan University were told this week.

Mrs. Orlie McAfee, who is the director of instruction of the New Nursery School at Colorado State College in Greeley, Colo., gave the demonstrations for the workshop, given in duplicate on Monday and Tuesday in the Tower Room of McKenny Union.

Ways to teach a child how to talk and to form concepts were emphasized in the workshop.

Mrs. McAfee's suggestions for items to use are apples, stones, blocks, tiles, spoons and cakecoloring in ice cube trays. These can help children to develop ideas of size, shape, color, position, number, comparisons and contrasts.

Adults — both parents and teachers — must plan opportunities and allow children to explore materials to discover relationships, Mrs. McAfee said.

They must listen, she says, to the children, and talk with them, so that they will learn the language and the thought processes that are so essential to success in school.

An overflow group of 80 teachers representing private and public nursery schools and early childhood education throughout Southeastern Michigan attended the workshop.

The program was sponsored by the Prospective Teacher Fellowship Program for Teachers of Preschool Disadvantaged Children, which is federally funded by the U.S. Office of Education. The program is directed by Dr. Barbara Borusch and Dr. Martha Irwin in the EMU college of education.

Bridal party includes Out-of-town attendants

When Miss Linda J. Burke became the bride of Richard K. Gray on Saturday, the couple was attended by eight attendants, four from distant points.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Burke of 878 Virginia Place and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Gray of 1034 Coleman St.

The wedding was at 2 p.m. Saturday in the First Methodist Church, with the Rev. Kenneth R. Callis officiating.

Out-of-state members of the wedding party were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Perry T. Valassis of Fullerton, Calif., a bridesmaid; his brother, Robert J. Gray, who came from Washington D. C., to be best man, and his two brothers-in-law, Mr. Valassis, and John C. Quickel, of Gastonia, N. C., who ushered.

Ypsilantians in the party were Mrs. Larry E. Burke, the bride's sister-in-law, who was matron of honor, and the Misses Cheryl Ashby and Rosanne Ebeler, and Ronald E. Gray, who was an usher.

For the wedding, the bride chose a gown of lace and silk organza with lace forming the bodice, long sleeves and the front overlay of the A-line skirt. A lace-edged organza train was attached at the shoulders.

A Colonial bouquet contained crystal white roses, miniature carnations and camellia leaves with a central rose corsage.

Coral gowns were worn by her attendants, with the silk-shantung styled in Empire fashions and short sleeves. They wore short white gloves and carried apricot carnations and baby's breath tied in white velvet.

A reception followed the wedding, taking place in the church fellowship hall. The rehearsal dinner had been at the Ambassador Restaurant at the Statler-Hilton Inn in Ann Arbor, with the bridegroom's parents as host couple.

MRS. RICHARD K. GRAY
(The former Miss Linda J. Burke)

Guests for the wedding came from Gastonia, N. C., Fullerton, Calif., Detroit, Garden City, and area communities.

As the pair left on their wedding trip, the bride wore a blue-knit suit with white blouse and navy blue purse and shoes.

The bridegroom, who has been in the Army since July, expects to leave for Vietnam after March 30. The bride will live with her parents.

She is a 1966 graduate of Ypsilanti High School and is employed at the National Bank of Ypsilanti. The bridegroom is a 1964 graduate of the school and attended Eastern Michigan University before entering the service.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Nicotine stains fingers

By HELOISE CRUSE
DEAR HELOISE: Please help me. I am a heavy smoker and have nicotine stains on my fingers. My girlfriend doesn't like it. Is there any way to remove the stains without sanding them off? I've tried just about everything to no avail. Ralph Edmonds

DEAR RALPH: There is a way, and don't think it's sissy. It's not.

Go to your dime store and buy a little bottle of fingernail cuticle remover. Pour some on a cloth or piece of cotton and rub away. Works every time.

If the stains are very heavy and old, it may take one or two applications a day for several days.

In fact . . . why not let your girlfriend do this for you? Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: When a wooden window rattles and is loose, put two thumbtacks in the groove where the window slides up and down. It will tighten it beautifully.

This is especially good in older houses. Mister Rattle

DEAR FOLKS: I have been trying out different brands of frozen pies lately and I have really got a laugh for you all.

I let them set out until the top crust gets soft, then use a fork and remold the edge so it will look homemade when it's served! How's that for a "homemade" idea? Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Had a pretty sick kiddo with measles, and fluids were hard to get down. So I filled my teapot and let Ricky drink from the spout.

He loved it.

The top keeps out the dust and it's easier to drink from the spout while lying down.

Guess variety is the spice of life when you're sick. Mother Love

DEAR HELOISE: I find that many wash dresses I buy don't have eyelets in the belts, and therefore tear easily.

So I put eyelets in the belt before the dress is washed. (You can buy them at any dime store.) First I iron a narrow strip of iron-on tape to the back of the belt. Then I use a paper punch the size of the eyelet to make a hole through the tape to correspond with the original hole in the belt.

Put eyelet in according to directions on eyelet box.

It's well-worth the time and effort, as belts will last much longer. Mrs. D. Ball

DEAR HELOISE: I made an inexpensive minnow net out of your wonderful nylon net and a bent coat hanger. Just tacked it on the wire with a heavy basting thread. J. E. C.

Garden club postpones Plans for tower garden

A garden planned around the base of Ypsilanti's Water Tower will wait until 1970 rather than be developed this year. Postponing of the Washtenaw Ave. road widening project caused the Ypsilanti Garden Club to decide this week to postpone developing of the McKay Garden.

The club held its March meeting Monday evening at the Senior Citizens Center, and plans for the garden were discussed.

On the advice of Austin Norton, the club will defer the Water Tower site until 1970 and until after the widening of Washtenaw Ave. and of Cross St. The Washtenaw widening has had several delays. In August the Cross St. to Hewitt Rd. stretch was put off with bid-letting slated for April, 1970. Last week, the stretch between the city limits and Carpenter Rd. was also postponed, until September, 1970. Predictions for completion for the later length were 1972.

Developments of the Washtenaw-Cross intersection will change the shape of the area to be planted and possibly the level and slope of the land, club members decided. Anything planted by then would likely be damaged by the road changes.

The club voted to replace rose bushes in the Senior Citizen Center garden which have been winter-killed. Arthur Howard, one of the original arrangers of the planting, will select and see to setting out the replacements.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Hazel Cullis, Miss Ora Mae Hartley and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holdridge was appointed.

The program committee for next year will be the Misses Eula Underbrink, Marion Stowe, Frances Warren, and Doris Milliman.

Mrs. M. J. O'Brien will be chairman of a garden tour, with her committee to be appointed later.

Using slides taken on several trips, Miss Underbrink presented a seasonal picture of the Smokeys. She concentrated especially on the colorful flowering trees and shrubs of the area. Those who had traveled there were reminded of the lovely scenery and those who had not were inclined by pictures and commentary to see it for themselves.

Mrs. Howard, Miss Hartley and Mrs. Gelmore served refreshments, using a St. Patrick's Day motif for table decorations. They provided shamrock badges for each member.

Guests were Mrs. Peter Sinelli, Mrs. Marshall Mahoney and Miss Lucille Langworthy.

Newcomers slate 3 March events

Guest speaker for the Newcomers Club meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center will be Mrs. Demaris Cash of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Cash, owner of the Treasure Mart in Ann Arbor, will talk on "Treasure Tales," discussing various types of antiques, and will bring along several items of interest.

For transportation, contact Mrs. Kenneth Kuelske at 483-0841 or Mrs. Lawrence Glover at 483-2596.

The club's Arts and Crafts Group will meet at Mrs. Robert T. Hunt's home at 1307 Kingwood Ave. on March 20.

For information on the meeting, which any Newcomer or potential member may attend, call Mrs. Hunt at 482-0969.

Two couples events are planned by Newcomers: a theatre party on March 29 and a potluck dinner on April 19.

For reservations for the theatre event, due March 14, contact Mrs. George D. Richards at 482-2068. The group will see "An Italian Straw Hat" produced by the Eastern Michigan University Players at Quirk Theatre at 8 p.m. and have a cocktail party later at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Baker at 911 Pearl St.

Historic blacksmith shop to be moved

The Island Blacksmith Shop on Mackinac Island, where the anvil rang for 80 years, will soon be moved to another location on the island.

Its walls will stand again, on new foundations and with structural replacements. On the walls will hang the horseshoes, carriage parts and woodworking tools just as their owner left them.

The late Herbert E. Benjamin was blacksmith, horseshoer and woodworker in the building for 65 years, taking the work load at age 14 from his father, Robert H. Benjamin, who had started the business 15 years before. The shop, in another location for its first few years, dates from the year construction of the Grand Hotel was begun in 1878.

The two-story building weathered gray by the years, has been given to the state by the late Mr. Benjamin's two children, Mrs. Dorothy J. Zack of 1419 Gregory Ave., Ypsilanti, and Robert E. Benjamin of Mackinac Island and Farmington. It has been accepted by the Mackinac Island State Park Commission last fall. The site remains the property of Mrs. Zack and Mr. Benjamin and his wife, Beverly.

With photographic records taken of interior arrangements, state workers are beginning to move the contents for storage while the building is taken down and reconstructed.

The new site has not yet been chosen by the State Park Commission, which includes among its governor-appointed members Joseph H. Thompson of Florida and 246 N. Mansfield St., Ypsilanti.

Three historic buildings are maintained by the state park outside Fort Mackinac and are open daily to the public. They are the Biddle House, believed built shortly before 1800, the Indian Dormitory, housing an Indian museum, and the Beaumont Building, commemorating Dr. William Beaumont. The blacksmith shop may become a fourth for tourists to visit in the town in addition to the fort's many other buildings.

The Island Blacksmith Shop's story began in the 1880s when Robert Benjamin came to Mackinac. He and his wife didn't fare well that year, and started for Detroit in the fall. But they stopped in Cheboygan, 20 miles south on the mainland, and he took work there for the winter. Herbert was born there in late November.

Hearing of plans for the huge summer hotel on Mackinac Island, they returned and remained. But Robert Benjamin didn't stay in the blacksmith trade. His 86 years of life included eight as sheriff of Mackinac County, when the family moved to St. Ignace, the county seat, with Herbert remaining to run the shop, and 30 years as postmaster on Mackinac Island. So from his 14th year on, Herbert was in charge of the Blacksmith Shop.

It wasn't just horseshoeing, but building and rebuilding carriages and repairs, too, of whatever Islanders and tourists brought him to fix—parts of yacht motors, which he could duplicate in steel down to the necessary 1000th of an inch; lawn mowers that needed sharpening, even eyeglass frames needing tiny screws.

The walls still are lined with things ready to be used—things he kept neat until he entered a nursing home shortly before his death in 1967. The walls display shoes of every size of horse's feet—in steel and in rubber. The steel ones are calked, with their heel-ends neatly turned to raise the horse's heel slightly, and with nail-holes punched through the 3/4-inch steel. The rubber shoes, developed in recent years, have a steel interior, and one tool Dr. Benjamin developed can, to fit a horse's foot—the idea he developed was passed along through his Detroit horseshoe supplier to other users of the new shoes.

At his blacksmith's forge, the late Herbert E. Benjamin welds band steel into a wheel for a Mackinac Island carriage. The forge, anvil and equipment as shown in the foreground, has been given to the state of Michigan.

The arrays on the walls and overhead included long strands of steel wires to thread into round rubber tiring for carriage wheels, and heavier pieces to make steel handles, runners for sleighs, and reinforcements for wooden carriage seats. Long pieces of wood would become whiffletrees to separate two horses hitched to a carriage, and bent pieces that curved gracefully would become shafts for a one-horse sleigh.

On the floor are kegs of horseshoe nails, boxes of ungainly pieces of cast iron.

Drawers of every size hold nails and screws, bolts and nuts. Large units of equipment include a metal cutter with a 4-foot lever that cuts half-inch strips of metal, a drill press whose large motor also will run a circular saw a floor below. Hundreds of small tools recall recent and decades-old methods of iron and woodwork.

The building is two-story, its front edging the hillside on the second story. Beyond the main room where horseshoeing was done, is a carriage-repair room. Below the front room is a wood shop with a "Michigan" basement used for storage, and beneath the rear room is a barn—with three stalls and space for two carriages.

Visitors go back to "horse and buggy days" in visiting Mackinac Island; the blacksmith shop was what kept that horse trotting and the buggy rolling.

Pollution Blamed On army

Engineers dump Waste in lakes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, blamed the Army Corps of Engineers Tuesday for contributing heavily to pollution of the Great Lakes, particularly Lake Erie.

The engineers, he said, dump into the lakes polluted materials dredged up in harbor and channel deepening projects.

Such a practice is not in harmony "with the national objective of cleaning up our rivers and lakes," Ashley told the House Public Works Committee.

Lake Erie, he said, "has been artificially aged some 15,000 years in the past half century by pollution activity."

Dredging activities of the Army engineers since 1960 have resulted in the dumping of more than 40 million cubic yards of polluted materials in disposal areas along the entire U.S. shoreline of the lake, he said.

In some instances, he said, polluted material has been dumped near intakes for municipal water supplies.

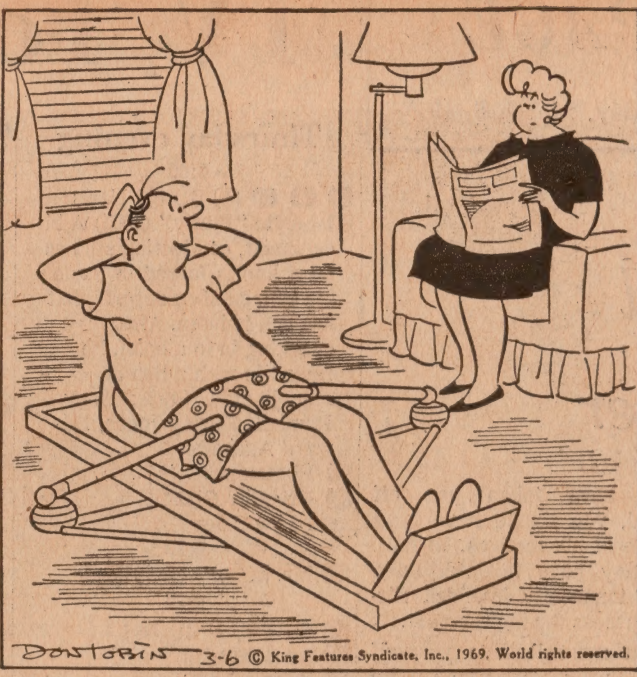

Committee members noted that all dredging projects undertaken by Army engineers are authorized by Congress, which generally instructs the engineers to dispose of the material in the least expensive manner and this usually means dumping it into the lakes.

Communities on the Great Lakes ask for deeper harbors and navigation channels, said Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., "You have to have dredging if you are going to have channels and harbors—it's a choice between changing the channel or the water intake sometimes."

The committee is considering legislation aimed at preventing water pollution.

Edwin J. Wolf, a Baltimore lawyer testifying in behalf of Chesapeake Bay boat owners, said the federal government should pre-empt the field of regulating waste disposal by vessels on lakes and rivers. Otherwise, he said, there would be a maze of conflicting state laws.

Old Fort Drummond Restoration slated

DRUMMOND ISLAND (AP)—A program which could result in a million-dollar restoration of old Fort Drummond, which was the last British stronghold in continental United States, will be submitted to island voters April 15.

Trek star, Shatner, Divorced

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The star of television's "Star Trek," William Shatner, often was absent from home, once for five months, his wife Gloria testified Wednesday in winning a divorce.

Mrs. Shatner, 34, said the 38-year-old Shatner seldom told her where he was and this made her "nervous and depressed." Under a settlement, she received custody of their three children, $2,500 monthly child support, the family home, and half of community property estimated at $500,000. They had been married 13 years.

to act for the township in seeking funds and making plans for a restoration program over a period of years.

Fort Drummond, also known as Fort Collyer, was built in 1815 by British troops who had been forced to surrender Mackinac Island by the treaty of the War of 1812.

In its time, it housed a garrison and dependents of 400 persons. It was abandoned by the British in 1823 and the garrison was removed to Georgia Bay in nearby Canada.

The property is now owned by private individuals. Some masonry of the old fort and its 34 buildings dot the area, along with old gun emplacements.

The proposal for the April election was approved by the township board last night. Supervisor Eldon Seaman said the commission will move immediately to form a tax-exempt, non-profit corporation to accept private donations to start the work.

The commission will seek private donations sufficient to obtain options on 103 acres of old fort property valued at $100,000. He said the present owners have indicated willingness to sell the land as part of the fort restoration program.

Despite 13th crash:

Pentagon eyes 60 more F111s

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is preparing to ask Congress for money to buy at least 60 more models of the F111 fighter-bomber which has just suffered its 13th crash in 26 months, sources report.

The move is interpreted by Air Force officers and other officials intimately associated with F111 production as the Nixon administration's vote of confidence in the controversial aircraft.

Barring last minute budgetary revisions, about $500 million for the F111 program will go into the proposed fiscal 1970 defense budget expected to be forwarded soon to Capitol Hill. The new buy will bring planned production of the supersonic F111 to around 400 planes, General Dynamics is already signed to turn out 331. And the Air Force may seek later this year to go far beyond 400.

Like other major weapons systems, the F111 project in recent days has been subjected to an extensive review by the new Pentagon team of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Air Force sources expect the F111 program to emerge largely intact from this dollar-cutting re-examination of defense programs inherited by the Republican administration from the outgoing Democrats.

Officials say the review has dealt with "cost-effective" questions about the plane rather than any technical problems which have been encountered.

The F111 accident rate and soaring cost problems have stirred criticism in Congress where Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., first secretary of the Air Force, is on record as calling for an investigation of the program and possibly its cancellation.

On Tuesday an F111A crashed near Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev., the 13th loss since January 1967. Cause was undetermined, but officers in Washington said the mishap would not affect the F111's future.

"If accidents made programs go under, we'd never have any aircraft," one officer commented.

Both the Air Force and General Dynamics contend that the F111 has experienced a lower accident rate per flying hour than any supersonic fighter-bomber ever produced by the United States.

The F4 Phantom, regarded as the next-best thing to the F111 and currently in use in Vietnam, had 13 crashes after a cumulative total of 21,000 hours flying time. The 13th F111 crash occurred at 25,000 flying hours. The F105 Thunderchief had a worse record than the F4.

Six of the 13 F111 crashes remain officially unsolved. The Air Force says four occurred due to pilot error. Three others were attributed to mechanical causes.

All operational F111's have been flying under load limitations since last October when a test wing rig failed during a ground "fatigue" test.

DEAR ABBY:

Affair is too hot For a divorce now

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 40 and have four nearly grown children. My husband has fallen in love with his secretary and has asked for a divorce so he can marry her. He says he will continue to support me and the children as before, and he is well able to.

He has always been a devoted husband and father, and I love him very much, but I've known from the day we were married that his love for me was not as strong as mine for him.

Should I give him a divorce? I know he is miserable and torn between his "love" for her and his loyalty to me and the children.

This has been going on for six months, and it is tearing me apart. I've even threatened suicide.

If I refuse to give him a divorce, do you think he will eventually give up the other woman? Or will he end up hating me? Tortured.

DEAR TORTURED: Don't make any permanent decisions now. Your husband's "love affair" sounds too hot not to cool down. But if it is the enduring kind of "love" — it will keep for another six months, after which you can view the situation more calmly and less emotionally. Probably the worst reason in the world to give a man a divorce is because he says he wants one.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 73-year-old aunt who has lived with us for the past 10 years. My husband and children adore her.

My problem is that lately she is forgetful and misplaces things and then she accuses people of "stealing."

I have seen her give someone something, and the next day she'll turn the house upside down looking for it. When I remind her that she gave it away, she'll tell me I'm "crazy."

Last week she tore one of her galoshes, so she threw them in the trash. Yesterday she told me one of her friends of 40 years' standing called on her and stole her galoshes. When I reminded her that she threw them away, she said, "Oh, you're crazy!"

Abby, how should this be handled? Worried

DEAR WORRIED: Auntie is becoming increasingly forgetful, and a bit crotchety in her old age. Be patient. And don't contradict her. And keep your sense of humor.

DEAR ABBY: This is in answer to "Worried," whose wife awakened him in the middle of the night, kissing him and calling him "Walter" — her doctor's name.

I have been married for over 26 years to an orthopedic surgeon, and you'd be flabbergasted how many women think they "love" their doctors. But you see, it isn't "love" — it's a combination of confidence, trust, gratitude and hero-worship.

How do I feel about this? I'm a nurse, and my father, who was very handsome, was a physician. My mother trusted my father, and I trust my husband. And when women gush about how great Leslie is, I smile and say, "Thank you." Then I think to myself, "My, she has good taste!" Sincerely, Greenville, S.C.

DR. BROTHERS:

Don Juan type and Seduced wives suffer

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My husband brought home a visiting client a few weeks ago. The man was charming and we all had a pleasant evening. The next afternoon he stopped by on the way to the airport to "say goodbye" and we ended up in bed. I've never been unfaithful to my husband in ten years of marriage but I was a pushover for this man. The most humiliating part is that he has not answered any of my letters or calls. I'm so ashamed I don't know what to do. — X

Dear Mrs. X: Understanding some of the possible reasons for this man's behavior and your own reactions may help to reduce some of your obvious distress.

Your guilt at being unfaithful to your husband is exaggerated by your sense of being taken advantage of. Now you seem to be hoping for some indication from the man that love or affection was involved, to justify your behavior.

Some men seem to make a career of charming and seducing women. They are incapable of forming lasting attachments with women and seem to find it impossible to fuse love and sexuality.

The habitually promiscuous male is probably using sex as a vehicle to solve emotional problems. The seemingly insatiable sex drive and history of numerous partners are part of the effort to come to terms with himself.

One type of habitually promiscuous male is the Don Juan. This man seems to take a special pleasure in the seduction of women normally considered virtuous, often virgins or married women. With each conquest, he reaffirms his belief that all women are essentially base and immoral creatures, not to be trusted.

Once he has obtained his goal, he has little interest in the woman and takes few pains to soften his rejection of her.

However, it is unfair to put too much of the blame on the male who is ever ready to take advantage of a promising situation. While the man's return the following afternoon may have taken you off guard, you should have been aware of his motives. In fact, he may have misinterpreted your innocently intended flirtatiousness the night before.

You must look to yourself and your marriage to discover why you were so responsive to his advances.

The jokes about the sexual availability of bored housewives are all too common, but boredom is too simple an explanation for sexual dalliance. More fundamental is the woman's suffering sense of self-esteem, her feelings of inadequacy, and frustration about her situation. Sex may be seen as a way of reaffirming desirability and femininity.

You are probably tempted to unload your guilt by confessing all to your husband and seeking reassurance that he still loves you and will accept you, regardless.

But complete honesty does not always solve problems. Telling your husband might indeed release some of your tension and fears about discovery, but it might also very well set off a vicious cycle of recrimination and revenge. Extra-marital affairs are often undertaken as a means of punishing the spouse.

Instead try to work out your feelings with a sympathetic and respected outsider such as your doctor or religious leader. If you continue to be preoccupied and upset about this, you might seek psychological counseling.

"Seven Tests to Distinguish Between Love and Infatuation" is the title of an interesting leaflet by Dr. Brothers. For a copy, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Joyce Brothers in care of The Press.

YOUR HEALTH

DR. LESTER COLEMAN

Our six-year-old daughter, the eldest of three, has had some kind of brain damage, probably a birth defect. Although she is slow in learning she is well coordinated and gets along remarkably well with other children. She is warm, adorable and loving.

I am aware that some parents of her playmates do not encourage having our child in their group, almost as if so-called mental retardation is contagious. Perhaps you can enlighten people and free them of this misconception. Mr. and Mrs. L.E.O., Ohio.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. O.: The age of enlightenment about mental retardation has not yet reached everyone, but the horizons are widening daily. It is now acknowledged that mental retardation is no stigma or shame. The fortunate parents of completely normal, healthy children without the handicap of "slowness" are now playing an active role with their kindness and understanding in helping restore "limited children" to their rightful world of happiness.

Millage OK'd

NILES (AP) — Voters in the Niles School District have approved a 19.5-mill school levy for operating expenses. The vote Tuesday was 2,851 - 2,802.

Mental retardation at birth is not a disease transmitted by bacteria. It now can be remedied in a great measure if all forces work together to give these children their greatest chances for emotional growth.

Your daughter's warmth can help her ingratiate herself and become part of a group which can then benefit from her rather than pay a penalty by accepting her.

An open discussion with the parents of your daughter's friends may give them a better insight into how their own children can be taught the dividends of kindness.

What is a horseshoe kidney? Is it dangerous and can it affect a normal life? Mrs. B. H., Massachusetts.

Dear Mrs. H.: This unusual condition occurs in about one in every five hundred people. In the absence of any infection people who have this unusually shaped kidney are as healthy and live as long as those with two kidneys.

Speaking of your health: Razor blades are particularly dangerous when used to pare corns, bunions and callouses.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to: Dr. Coleman in care of The Press.

Windsor To stay On DST

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—You're driving along listening to the radio and the announcer gives you the time. It's got to be right. Right?

Wrong. At least in the Windsor-Detroit area after this April 27. That's the date Daylight Saving Time goes into effect in Canada and most of the United States.

But Michigan isn't observing fast time. So when that announcer says it's 6 o'clock in Detroit, it's actually 7 o'clock across the mile-wide Detroit River.

The potential confusion was created Monday when the Windsor City Council voted 5-3 to put their city on Daylight Time, along with the rest of Ontario.

Particularly affected by the decision will be the 5,500 Windsorites who work in Detroit and the 200-odd Detroiters who cross the river in the other direction.

Also particularly affected will be Windsor nightclub operators, who must close at 11:30 p.m. Saturdays. That'll be 10:30 p.m. in Detroit.

"Who'll come over for an hour and a half," wailed Mike Drakich, owner of Windsor's Top Hat Supper Club. Drakich predicted business would plummet, affecting not only restaurants and clubs, but their suppliers, too.

Senators seek amnesty For Ferris protesters

LANSING (AP) — Two Negro state senators called Wednesday for total amnesty for the more than 260 black Ferris State College students arrested earlier this week in racial strife on the campus.

Sens. Coleman Young and Basil Brown, both Detroit Democrats, met briefly with Gov. William Milliken to discuss the situation and urge that trespass charges against the black students be dropped in the interest of "equal justice."

"We want an equal application of the law," Young said. "Those whites who were guilty of assault and refused to disperse are equally guilty of violations of the law."

Brown said Ferris President Victor Spatheff should take "a course in 20th century race relations."

"He's said the college is not equipped to handle black students," Brown added. "You don't handle black students any differently than you handle green students. The man is not in the 20th century."

Senate Republicans, meanwhile, adopted a caucus resolution commending Milliken, Spatheff and State Police Director Fredrick Davids for the way in which the Ferris disorder was handled.

Sen. John Toepfer, R-Cadillac, who spent 12 hours Tuesday at Ferris, said he felt that justice was meted out equitably. But, minutes later he said some jeering white students also should have been arrested.

"Whites were literally beseiging the place," Young added. "The black students were not going anywhere." Brown also called for adjournment of a bond deadline, set for noon Friday. Those arrested were released after being arraigned on charges of trespassing and ordered to pay $50 bond each by that time.

Here are some meanings Of space-age terminology

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Here are meanings for some of the new space-age terms used by the crew of Apollo 9:

LEM: Nickname for lunar module, the moon-landing craft making its flight debut. Future LEMs will taxi astronauts from Apollo command ship in lunar orbit to the moon's surface.

Spider: Call sign for astronauts inside LEM, derived from the craft's spider-like appearance.

Gumdrop: Call sign for Apollo 9 command ship. It looked like a gum drop when protected in blue wrapping paper during shipment on earth.

Golden slippers: Nickname for gold-colored glass fiber foot holds attached to outside of LEM. Schweickart will slip his feet into them to get leverage during space walk.

PLSS: Pronounced "plis," for portable life support system, it is a knapsack-like container to be worn on Schweickart's back during the space walk to supply oxygen and cooling into space suit.

EMU: Ext ravehicular mobility unit, the garment and related equipment to be worn by Schweickart during his space walk.

OPS: Pronounced "awps," for oxygen purge system. To be used only in an emergency, it contains 30 minutes of oxygen supply if the life-support systems in the LEM or PLSS fail.

Front porch: Porch-like platform outside the LEM's hatch. On lunar landing missions, astronauts will step onto porch and climb down a ladder from it to the moon's surface.

FIDO: Nickname for flight dynamics officer who plays a key role in deciding how spacecraft motors and systems are operating.

DPS: Pronounced "dips," for descent propulsion system, main braking rocket on LEM which will lower future astronauts to moon.

DSKY: Pronounced diskey, nickname for display and keyboard panel.

AGS: Pronounced "aggs," for aboard guidance system. To be tested on Apollo 9, AGS would be used to steer LEM toward command ship for a rendezvous if LEM's prime guidance system failed.

For this week's state finals:

Brave wrestling duo seeded No. 1

Ypsilanti High, the state's top-ranked Class A wrestling team, will have two top seeds in this weekend's state championship meet at East Lansing.

The Braves' two regional champions, Clifton Smith and Larry Rice, will get what are presumably the best bracket positions at 127 and 133 pounds, meet chairman Fendley Collins said this morning.

Ypsilanti High finished third in the state finals last year following a 10th-place finish in 1967. The year before, in 1966, they were second after winning the crown in 1964.

This season has presented many thrills to the grapplers and their fans and has had a few downs to go with a lot of its success.

After being ranked in the No. 1 spot the Braves lost to Trenton in a dual meet and later were tied by Lansing Eastern. Each time they fought back, however, and in the district tourney at Trenton the Braves put on a tremendous performance in soundly trouncing both Trenton and highly-rated Temperance Bedford.

Although the Braves won only two individual titles in last week's regional at Belleville, they received good enough matches to win another team crown there. Only once in the competition have the Braves previously lost a regional title, and that was a third place finish.

The hopes of a championship rest largely on underclassmen as the Braves' first two wrestlers, Marty Spalding and Nehemiah Weston, are a junior and sophomore, respectively. Spalding's first match at 95 pounds will be against Dave Snook of Grand Rapids Union.

Weston, wrestling at 103 pounds, will tangle with Dave Rodegeb in his opening match.

Belleville's Brad Warrick, the regional champion at 103 pounds, was seeded second behind Creighton Mabry of Battle Creek Central, one of the two teams rated as the most competition for Ypsilanti High in the team competition.

Don Wallace of Wayne Memorial, the 120-pound regional champion, was seeded third and is given a good chance to win the title.

The other Braves' wrestlers in the Friday and Saturday tourney are co-captain Allen Gray and heavyweight Louis Whisenant.

Whip Whitmore Lake, 66-41:

Rough Riders romp

By BARRY LEVINE
Press Sports Writer

With this being its last year of existence because of a legislative order, Roosevelt took the Bowen Field House floor last night for the beginning of its final state tourney and, after a slow start, the Rough Riders ran Whitmore Lake right out of the building.

Roosevelt began its last run at a possible Class D state title by eliminating the Trojans, 66-41, in the opening round of district competition.

Whitmore Lake led most of the first quarter, but a big finish netted the Riders a 15-13 lead going into the second period. From then on it was all downhill for Roosevelt, which widened the spread to 33-27 at the half.

The first-half spurt was led by the aggressive play of both Jeff Washington and Dave Scott, neither of whom was a starter two months ago. Scott fired in 11 of his 14 points and grabbed eight rebounds, while Washington hit for 10 points and also had eight grabs.

In the second half Whitmore Lake managed only a total of 14 points, as the Riders all came alive, getting 12 in the third quarter and 21 in the fourth.

Roosevelt wound up with four of its starters in double figures, led by Washington's 16 and Bart Packard's 14.

One of the dominating factors was the board play. The Riders' front line of Scott, Washington and Craig Lounsbury accounted for 35 rebounds, one more than the Trojans could muster.

Head Coach Webster Kirksey was obviously pleased with the performance which lifted his squad's record to 8-11 for the season and commented, "They can really play ball when they want to." He gave much of the credit to the strong improvements made by both Scott and Washington, who hit on eight of 12 shots last night.

Scott has been coming along of late and now Washington is shooting more, and if they continue the fine play and it rubs off on their teammates, the Rough Riders will be tough the rest of the way.

The win moves them into the second round with a game against Clinton Thomas More Friday night at about 8:45, following the game between Grass Lake and St. John's. The winners will meet Saturday at 7 p.m. for the district title.

In two previous games, Roosevelt and Thomas More have split road victories with the Knights taking the Riders, 52-51, at Bowen last Tuesday in the final regular season game.

Radatz takes giant step Toward Tiger uniform

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Monster took his first giant step Wednesday and with a couple more he may make the journey from Toledo to Detroit.

Dick Radatz, relief specialist who was nicknamed the Monster when he pitched for the Boston Red Sox, retired the 12 batters he faced as the Detroit Tigers played their second intrasquad game of the spring training season.

A year ago Radatz threw 26 balls in a row during a similar game with the Chicago Cubs and ended up with Toledo, Detroit's International League farm club.

"If I throw like I did today but with a little more velocity there's a place for me with the Tigers," he said.

Manager Mayo Smith also was pleased with the performance of the Detroit native.

"He threw the ball pretty good," Smith said. "He was free and loose."

Radatz broke in with Boston in 1962 and led the American League that year in games played as a pitcher (62). He won 31 games in the next two years, none as a starter. And in 1964 he set an AL record for most games finished (67) and most wins as a relief pitcher (16). But he went downhill after that as he lost his control and with it his confidence.

Radatz was in the minor leagues all last year and much of 1967. He started the '67 season with Chicago of the National League and was with Cleveland of the AL for a while before that.

At Toledo last year he had a 6-7 won-lost record and a 2.78 earned run average and, although not on Detroit's 40-man spring training roster this year, the 32-year-old hurler was invited to work out with the team in his comeback bid.

Seven other pitchers took 15-minute turns during the game and because of the unusual and continual lineup changes there was no practical way to keep score.

Tigers knocked out Of district tourney

By DAVE HERBST
Press Sports Editor

TEMPERANCE — Belleville so easily could have been the class of the district field here.

After all, it did have the best record.

But what little it would have required from the Tigers they didn't have in what Coach Al Gates candidly admitted was "definitely one of our worst games."

Belleville bowed to host Bedford, 63-56, in the nightcap of last evening's tourney-opening twin bill. In the first game, winless Monroe pushed Adrian into overtime before losing, 54-51. So that leaves Bedford and Adrian to battle it out for the district championship Saturday evening.

By record, Belleville (5-11) was the top team in the district under the first-year tutelage of Gates. And by potential, too, there are those who figured the Tigers to be the class.

And then there were the stubborn Kicking Mules, playing on their home floor and ignorant of the foregoer. So when the opportunity knocked, they took advantage.

Opportunity was what will probably go down as Belleville's worst quarter of basketball this year. The Tigers had fashioned from a devastating board game and harassing man-to-man defense a 16-10 advantage at the quarter.

And they had hit the first bucket of the second period to gain their biggest margin of the evening, 18-10.

Then the excruciating turning point came. The Tigers got into foul trouble — by the end of the frame, Bob Fowlkes and Norm Harrington, the starting forwards, both had three; guard Garra Pettus had a pair.

With the fouls came more cautious, and hence less aggressive play on defense and around the backboards.

That was coupled with ball handling difficulties leading to seven - second quarter turnovers; dismal, 25 per cent shooting accuracy; and some sharp shooting on Bedford's part.

The result was that, after that initial basket moving Belleville in front by eight, the Tigers were outscored 21-4 until the intermission. At one point, the Kicking Mules scored 13 straight points, zipping from a 20-16 deficit to a 27-20 advantage.

Jim Kindle, a 6-1 forward with a guard's moves, was a main impetus in the surge. His basket deadlocked the count at 20 with 5:08 remaining.

The next shot he took, a jumper from around the foul line, put Bedford on top. And the next time he let fly on a driving layup, it boosted the Kicking Mules' margin to four points.

Those shots were, incidentally, consecutive shots for the team as well as for Kindle — at one time, Bedford made five or six attempts.

After that spree, Bedford was in control except for a couple of anxious moments at the beginning of the fourth quarter, when the Tigers hit four straight baskets to cut the difference to four points, 45-41.

Fouls definitely played a vital role in the outcome. Belleville was assessed 21 times, with John Yocum and Pettus eventually fouling out. In addition, the scoring margin between the teams was all accounted for at the charity stripe — both teams scored 22 baskets.

Leading scorer in the game was Pettus with 19 points. Fowlkes, Yocum and Harrington also inched into doubles for Belleville, while 6-5 Eric Albert paced Bedford with 16.

Dearborn Tankers win Loop meet

WAYNE — As was expected, powerhouse Dearborn High dominated the Sauk Trail League swimming meet, resoundingly defeating three league opponents by piling up 114 points on a strong combination of relay and individual firsts here last night.

Dearborn captured both relays and took six firsts in individual events. Dearborn Edsel Ford finished second with 97 points, host Wayne Memorial third with 48 and Ypsilanti High finished with 13.

The Zebras' medley relay team of Bob Albright, Paul Nichols, Robert Rail and Paul Richards was barely edged in the medley relay with a 1:49.5 clocking, a second behind the winning Dearborn team. The time broke the record of 1:50.6 set by this same team earlier this year and represents a new varsity record.

Ypsilanti High's best showing in individual events was provided by Dave Hatch, who finished 6th in the butterfly. The Braves' relay team finished fourth in both events.

Red Wings settle for 2-2 tie As Esposito sets another mark

By the Associated Press
The usually calm, sophisticated people of Boston jumped like ten tribes of Hippias, and then deluged the hockey ring with dozens of hats, shoes, and even playing cards.
Their star, Phil Esposito, drove them to joy when he made two assists, setting a National Hockey League record and enabling Boston to catch up with and tie Detroit 2-2 Wednesday night.
Gordie Howe's goal and assist for Detroit was lost by

Purdue's Mount heads All Big 10 cage team

CHICAGO (AP) — Purdue, champion for the first time since 1940, landed scoring titlist Rick Mount and playmaker Herman Gilliam on the 1969 All-Big Ten basketball team named by The Associated Press Thursday.
They were joined by Dave Sorenson of Ohio State; Rudy Tomjanovich, Michigan; and Dave Scholz, Illinois.
Mount, shooting for Big Ten scoring records, and Tomjanovich were unanimous choices by The Associated Press board of sports writers. Sorenson missed unanimity by one vote.
Scholz barely beat out Michigan State's Lee Lafayette for a first team berth in the closest balloting. Lafayette headed the second team which included Jim Clemons, Ohio State sophomore, a top field goal percentage hitter Ken Johnson of Indiana, a leading rebounder; Greg Jackson, sturdy Illinois sophomore; and Dale Kelley, Northwestern.

Alex Delvecchio's 15-footer just as a two-man advantage was ending gave Detroit a 1-0 lead at 17:3 of the first period.
Esposito, the NHL's first 100 point scorer, took a long pass from John McKenzie and passed to Johnny Bucyk who scored at 1 1/2 of the second period.
Howe notched his 38th goal of the season at 1:02 of the third period. But at 6:02, Esposito passed to John McKenzie for the tying goal.
Esposito's feat broke the record of 62 assists set by Chicago's Stan Mikita in 1966-67. A total of 14,659 Boston fans watched the game.

Hull got 50 goals for the fourth time in his 12-year career.
His 50 goals this season gave him 464 for his career and third place on the all-time list, two ahead of Montreal's Jean Beliveau. Only Maurice Richard of Montreal, who scored 544 in 18 seasons, and Detroit's Gordie Howe, who has 726 in 23 seasons, have more career goals than Hull.

Hull's two goals against the Rangers twice tied the score with the record 50th coming at 1:43 of the third period. Then Chico Maki put the Hawks on top but Don Marshall tied it for New York with only 71 seconds left to play.
The only other 50-goal scorers in NHL history were Richard, who had 50 in 50 games in 1944-45 and Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal, who had 50 in 64 games in 1960-61.

Pistons' new players Lead win over Knicks

By the Associated Press
When New York and Detroit made their big National Basketball Association trade last December the Knicks gave up two for one. Wednesday night the two was one too many.

Howard Komives had his best night as a Piston with 30 points and seven assists in Detroit's 128-120 victory over the Knicks. Walt Bellamy, who joined him on the New York-to-Detroit trip, added 21 points and grabbed 15 rebounds, offsetting the 26 points and 21 rebounds for Dave DeBusschere, who traveled the opposite route.

Elsewhere, Chicago moved into the fourth and last playoff spot in the Western Division by three points over San Diego with a 124-108 rout of Milwaukee and San Francisco defeated Baltimore 114-107.

In the ABA, Oakland downed Houston 140-134, Indiana walloped Dallas 131-96, Kentucky bombed New York 128-103 and Los Angeles beat Minnesota 123-118.

Bellamy and Jimmy Walker, who scored 29 points in his most solid performance in weeks, pumped in 12 apiece in the third period as the Pistons stretched a three-point lead to eight. Komives then drilled in 14 in the final quarter to keep the Knicks at bay.

It was a costly defeat for the Knicks, dropping them 1 1/2 games behind second-place Philadelphia in the East and leaving them 4 1/2 behind frontrunning Baltimore.

The Bulls shot accurately and controlled the boards as they whipped Milwaukee and edged past idle San Diego. Jerry Sloan fired Chicago with 43 points while Jon McGlocklin had 38 for the losers.

The Bulls built a 17-point lead in the first period but had to pull away again after the Bucks cut it to 74-70 midway through the third quarter.

Baltimore wiped out a 10-point San Francisco lead in the fourth period as Earl Monroe scored 18 of his 42 points in the quarter. But Jeff Mullins' basket put the Warriors ahead again, this time for good.

Nate Thurmond led the winners with 34 and Mullins added 28.

Lincoln and Willow Run were the biggest suppliers in the top 20, each with three cagers.

Olympic athletes accused Again of taking money

NEW YORK (AP) — Track and field competition at last October's Olympics seems to have included a new event—selling shoes—and the athletes found it much more profitable than running the mile, throwing the shot or dashing the 440.

The unofficial event apparently was entered by several German shoe manufacturers, who allegedly paid athletes from all countries to wear their shoes for advertising purposes.

While American athletic officials reiterated Wednesday they knew some United States athletes accepted such money, they still can't prove it. But the International Amateur Athletic Federation will be doing its best to do away with the event, which is illegal under amateur rules.

"Something, soon, is going to be done to stop you running in shoes given to you by firms for the sole purpose of advertising," warned the Marquess of Exeter, president of the IAAF. "The majority of the council is in favor of a single color (for shoes)—probably white. We shall take our final decision and announce the date when other shoes will be outlawed after our meeting in London in June."

The advertising payoff controversy first flared at the 1968 Winter Olympics when ski manufacturers tried to get athletes to wear their products. It continued into the Summer Games when rumors were rampant that athletes were receiving under-the-table payments.

Then, Wednesday, Sports Illustrated, in a copyrighted article by John Underwood, charged in its March 10 issue that track athletes at Mexico City were getting as much as $100,000 in cash and $350,000 in equipment from the shoe manufacturers.

"We investigated this very thoroughly," said Douglas F. Roby, president of the United States Olympic Committee, from Detroit, "and I don't think there was anything like those proportions."

After years of designing and controlling the quality of America's most famous $95-$145 suits, Salvatore creates the $69.95 suit that should sell for $100.

Salvatore says:

"Our imported fabrics are equal to and many are superior to cloths used in the $100 and up men's suit."

Salvatore says:

"Our styling is as distinctive and forward-looking as the most expensive
men's suits in the country."

Salvatore says:

"Seven of the $100 and up men's suit makers use the same inner canvas we have in our $69.95 suit."

Salvatore says:

"There are details in the $100 suit that add to the price without adding to its appearance or life.
We put the significant details in our $69.95 suit."

Salvatore says:

"We use the same shoulder pads found in the $100 and suits that sell for $100."

Salvatore says:

suit at $69.95."

What's at the movies tonight

SWEET NOVEMBER: Sandy Dennis stars as a kooky young thing who brightens each first of the month by taking in a new male roommate. The inevitable complications occur when Mr. November has a somewhat more permanent arrangement in mind, but all is finally straightened out in a burst of sugary melodrama which sends both the would-be suitor and the audience packing. —Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

HELL IN THE PACIFIC: Lee Marvin and Toshiro Mifune star as an American marine and a Japanese officer marooned on the same desert island to fight a microcosmic version of WWII. The producers have admirably resisted fairystyle transformations, but they have also foregone any other significant character development. Two fine actors are frozen in a tableau of visual antagonism — a good still, but hardly a full-length motion picture. — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

WRECKING CREW: Dean Martin returns as campy detective Matt Helm to juggle a billion dollar gold robbery with such diversions as Elke Sommer, Nancy Kwan and Tina Louise. Less of a sequel than a rerun. — State-Wayne

THE TOUCHABLES: The title is the most titillating thing about this tawdry story of four girls who kidnap a rock and roll idol. If meant as a spoof, the film's just not funny; if meant seriously, it's in dreadfully bad taste. — Willow Drive-in

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. —Campus

THE IMPOSSIBLE YEARS: Take a perplexed parent unable to understand a rebellious 17-year-old daughter, throw in adolescent love interest with the boy next door, and put Dad David Niven's production on the line. Adds up to another family situation cliché saved only by good acting and clever direction. — Wayside

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media. — Quo Vadis

GREETINGS: Anti-establishment satire loosely wound on the theme of three youths passing time until they receive the inevitable "greetings" from their friendly draft board. Ranging from blackest comedy to sheer hilarity, the film is no less meaningful for the fact that it is also superbly entertaining. —Fifth Forum

COOL HAND LUKE: Paul Newman turns in a moving performance as a man who refuses to be broken by the incredible inhumanities of a Southern prison camp. Studied with gallows' humor, the film is almost unbearably harsh, but it is a harshness justified by a story that ought to be told. — Algiers Drive-In

CANDY: How could a film with Richard Burton, Marlon Brando, Charles Coburn and Walter Matthau be all bad? Somehow "Candy" manages to be. In an utterly tasteless and insensitive treatment of Terry Sotherton's masterful satire, the producers have created a film as boring as it is vulgar. The waste is unforgivable. — Martha Washington

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCuller's story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. — Campus

PRETTY POISON: An unassuming gem of a thriller, "Pretty Poison" is a study in human pathology. Tuesday Weld is superb as a teenage girl completely indifferent to conventional morality, and Anthony Perkins performs well as her uncomprehending victim. Set against the normalcy of a small New England town, the film rivals the best Hitchcockian excursions into the macabre. — Willow Drive-in

YELLOW SUBMARINE: Full-length animated cartoon featuring the Beatles in perilous combat with the Blue Meanies and all the other people who can't stand happiness. No one but a you-know-what dare find the film anything short of a delight. —Michigan

WAIT UNTIL DARK: Audrey Hepburn stars as a blind girl involved in a lethal game of blindman's bluff with several desperate criminals. Generally routine chillerama, saved at the end by one of the most genuinely horrifying moments on screen. — State-Wayne

THREE IN THE ATTIC: Light-hearted spoof on feminine tactics in the perpetual battle of the sexes. Yvette Mimieux stars as one of three sullied ladies who avenge themselves on their shared lover by imprisoning him in their dormitory and impressing him into stud service. Not for children or mothers about to send a daughter to college. — State

COOGAN'S BLUFF: A would-be powerful contrast between parochial and enlightened views of the law is sadly obscured in a film which relies on needless violence to bring home its message. Lee J. Cobb turns in a good performance as the "city" cop, but Clint Eastwood plays his country counterpart with characteristic flatness. On a bill with "House of Cards." — Wayne Drive-in

BONNIE AND CLYDE: Blamed as a factor in the increasing trend towards violence in the cinema, the film actually is to be applauded for tempering a potentially sensational theme with sound psychological and dramatic conflict. If the film is brutal, it is only because killers are. — Algiers Drive-In

GONE WITH THE WIND: Clark Gable and Vivian Leigh in a love story as timeless as the film itself. If it's possible that anyone hasn't yet seen it, by all means do. Quo Vadis, Penthouse I

ROMEO AND JULIET: Director Franco Zeffirelli's contemporary retelling casts two real teen-agers in the roles of the adolescent lovers. The dramatic poetry of Shakespeare's lines is somewhat obscured, but the freshness and immediacy of this down-key version more than compensate for the loss. In Zeffirelli's hands, the play becomes one of character, and the transformation is as exciting emotionally as it is intellectually. — Fox Village

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing pathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. — La Parisien

Dean Martin and Peter Graves groove to the hoedown sound of Minnie Pearl on "The Dean Martin Show," tonight at 10 on channel 4.

TV

JONATHAN WINTERS: Shelley Winters, Paul Lynde and Smokey Robinson and the Miracles join the cast for a variety hour that swings all the way from pop music to an hilarious spoof on "The Killing of Sister Wilhelm." All for fun—8 p.m.; in color on Ch. 2 receives the brain of a dying gangster in an emergency transplant. Sheerest fantasy in 1940 when the film first came out; well worth considering in the present age of miracle medicine.—11 p.m.; Ch. 24

Night life

TELESCOPE: "The Nature Factory" probes the theory that modern technology has all but supplanted man's reliance on nature for the fulfillment of his basic needs. Guests include Drs. Herman F. Mark and Murray Goodman of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. — 9:30 p.m.; in color on Ch. 9

Our best to you...

LONG DAYS JOURNEY INTO NIGHT: In a play which was never produced until after the author's death, Eugene O'Neill probes the half-hidden ghosts of his own family to create a drama of near classic tragic proportions. Now in its last week at the Meadow Brook Theater, no devotee of fine theater should miss a production generally accorded to be among the John Fernald Company's finest.—Meadow Brook Theater, Oakland University, Rochester; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $5

Award nominee arrested

INKSTER (AP)—One of four nominated last month by Inkster's Jaycees for their Distinguished Service Award, 32-year-old Carl P. Apple face a U.S. District Court hearing April 24 on bank robbery charges. Jailed over the weekend, he now is free on bond.

The robber got only $1,933, which he stuffed into a coat pocket. He jammed a toy, plastic gun in the other and ran. Apple was arrested at the end of a chase from a Manufacturers National Bank branch in nearby Westland.

He was highly thought of in Inkster and was involved in a number of civic and social tasks.

He was active in church projects and St. Norbert's School Parent-Teacher Guild, a past president of Inkster Jaycees, a member of the Dearborn-Inkster Human Relations Council and director-treasurer of the Wayne County Suburban Legal Aid Service.

Apple told reporters he had had "some troubles."

"All of a sudden I was a failure and I couldn't bring myself to tell my wife, my friends, or anyone, even myself," he said.

Parents sue Principal

RAYMOND, Wis. (AP) — Richard Goetsch, principal of an elementary school, has been sued for $97,500 by two couples who complain that he spanked their three children for throwing snowballs.

Goetsch, 33, said Wednesday he swatted 170 of his pupils once, apiece with a wooden paddle after a snowball spree which caused injury to four students.

Art

LIVING WITH ART is the title of the Detroit Artists Market's ninth annual show, currently on display in the J. L. Hudson downtown store. The 250 paintings, sculptures, ceramics and drawings included in the show are arranged in a special gallery and four room settings—two traditional and two contemporary — specially designed to demonstrate effective ways of showcasing private collections. Some 200 local artists are participating in this unique "environmental" show, among them David Tammany who is currently a member of the faculty at Eastern Michigan University.—J. L. Hudson's downtown, 9th floor home furnishings; through March 22 with galleries open during all normal store hours

A TRAVELING EXHIBIT of 51 photographs by Eugene Atget is currently on display in the main lobby of the EMU Library. Interested primarily in the architecture of his native France, many of Mr. Atget's photographs were purchased by the French Commission of Historical Monuments after many of the original sites had been damaged by the bombings of WWI. The aesthetic importance of Mr. Atget's work, however, remained to be discovered by the Surrealists and most of his work was not rescued from obscurity until after his death in 1927. — EMU Library exhibit; through March 20, open daily from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Outdoors

MICHIGAN IN THE SPRING is rivaled only by Michigan in the summer for a full schedule of exciting and unique outdoor events. Warm weather brings festival time throughout the state with everything from Holland's tulip time gala to a hydroplane spectacular in the Irish Hills and the National Coho Salmon Festival in Honor. Whatever your particular interest, Michigan probably provides some event you can't afford to miss. Plan ahead now by writing for a Michigan Calendar of Events, and finding out just how much the state has to offer. Free copies of the spring and summer calendar are available now at the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Bldg., Lansing 48926.

MAKE A NOTE: Tickets for all events at J. L. Hudson Stores — PTP Theater, Detroit Symphony concerts, shows at Cobo Arena, Masonic Temple, etc. — can be ordered by phone and charged directly to your account! Special service for men-about-town who prefer not to leave the house.

Special

DOLPHINS THAT JOINED THE NAVY: Glenn Ford is the on-camera narrator for this unusual story of the Navy's extensive research with dolphins and the possible applications of this research to future marine study.—Detroit Historical Museum, Woodward at Kirby; through March 13 with showings daily at noon and 4 p.m., Sunday at noon and 3 p.m.

Theater

SOUTH PACIFIC: Rodgers and Hammerstein's delightful musical about a contingent of nurses who invade a military outpost in the South Pacific. The story is funny and thoroughly human, and the score contains some of the famous teams' most memorable melodies. Produced by the Ann Arbor Civic Theater. — Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, S. Hall, Ann Arbor; 8 p.m. curtain, Saturday at 7 and 10 p.m.; tickets from $2 to $3.

AN ITALIAN STRAW HAT: Eugene Labiche and Marc-Michel take the classic French farce to its ultimate degree in an hilarious romp which is really just one long amazingly complicated chase... after a hat. With music straight out of the French vaudeville tradition. — Hilberry Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets $2-$3.

"The Alchemist," Ben Johnson's wild and wicked comedy, is one of two productions by the Stratford National Theater of Canada to be presented this spring by the U-M Professional Theater Program. Tickets for the two-week engagement which opens on March 25 are now on sale at the Lydia Mendelssohn Theater and at Hudson's and Grinnell's stores.

Books

THE STRIKER PORTFOLIO by Adam Hall. Simon and Schuster; $4.95. West Germany has purchased 500 planes from the British to the tune of $3 billion. Within a year, 36 of them have crashed, always killing the pilot. Who's behind the massive sabotage, and what is the full extent of the enemy plot? Enter secret agent Quiller—the well-known down-key hero of such exploits as "The Quiller Memorandum"—to get to the bottom of it. Author Hall doesn't waste much time on high-sounding folderol. He writes an action story, and a good one which takes Quiller through a would-be suicide, the murder of a double-agent, a high speed, high-stakes car race and an encounter with a modern Lucretia Borgia before the mystery is finally—and ingeniously—solved. For those who like their action straight and have a free evening to devote to a book that defies stop-and-start perusal, Mr. Hall has turned up another dandy.

Music

HANS WERNER HENZE, the noted German composer, will conduct the first U.S. performance of his own "Arioso for Mezzo Soprano, Violin and Orchestra" at the Detroit Symphony Orchestra concert this evening. Also included in the program will be the Detroit premiere of Henze's "Telemanniana" and a performance of Brahms' Symphony No. 4.—Ford Auditorium, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. concert; tickets from $2 to $5.50.

Records

THE SEEKERS: "LIVE!" (Capital). There's something about a live recording that's a little more exciting than a studio production. Maybe it's because the audience seems to be having such a good time, or maybe it's because the performers are reacting to the enthusiasm of a "good crowd." In any case, the something extra comes across on this new LP recorded by the Seekers in a concert at London's Talk of the Town. Geared to club dates, the mixed foursome has developed the knack for putting over a wide variety of sounds. Their program ranges from old standards to latest pop, with an accent on such home-town Down Under sounds as "With My Swag on My Shoulder." By the time they wrap up with a spirited rendition of "Georgy Girl," you've just got to be with them.

Kiddie shows to change:

Finding theme gets tough

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — "Music Hall," NBC's variety anthology hour has the creative problem of coming up each week with a new theme around which to wrap a show and get the most out of its guest stars.

The strain showed on Wednesday night's effort, a stag affair in which the assorted male performers spent most of the time talking and singing and working in sketches about women.

In addition to presenting Robert Goulet, almost completely disguised under a full, dark beard, there was comic Phil Silvers, plus rustic comic George Lindsey of "Mayberry," the singing Lettermen and—a rare treat—ballet star Edward Villella.

Goulet sang attractively but seemed uncomfortable and edgy playing straight man to Silvers and Lindsey. Villella was most effective in a solo dance number which used camera techniques and tricks—including slow motion and stop motion with great success.

The less said about the comedy sketches, perhaps, the better.

NBC and ABC, with loud trumpeting have announced this week major revisions in their Saturday morning schedules next season. Saturday morning, of course, is the TV time period given, by common consent, to the youngest members of the audience and consists largely of cartoon shows.

Both networks will add some other types of entertainment to the morning mix and will get rid of some of the kiddie shows featuring monsters and other unpleasantness. The announcement comes after network TV as a whole has been criticized for the quality of its programming for children.

With spring coming on soon, householders with a patch of ground and even apartment dwellers with a sunny window and access to an educational television station are urged to scan the schedules for a series called "Making Things Grow."

"The program which like Julia Child's cooking series, originates in Boston, has that same quality of authenticity and a star of great personality. That is a knowledgeable, dedicated gardener named Thalassa Crusoe.

Whether she is describing the proper components of soil for good growing or demonstrating how and when to replot houseplants, Mrs. Crusoe's zest and down-to-earth commentary make her half-hour shows a pleasant TV experience even if one has nothing more dramatic growing than a pot of winter-weary philodendron.

Bob Hope's Christmas show last January on NBC has been the most popular one-shot television special so far this season, a study of Nielsen ratings of specials by a network research department shows. And a Hope program in mid-December was a close second.

Among the specials at the top of the list of almost 90, were the Elvis Presley show, "Heidi" of football fame, two "Charlie Brown" re-runs, Andy Williams' Christmas show and a show starring the Harlem Globetrotters. The study covered the period between the opening of the current season in mid-September and mid-February.

4-year voter registration Receives House approval

LANSING (AP) — Four-year voter registration — opposed by some who contend off-year voting is discouraged under such a system—was approved Wednesday in the House by a 56-50 vote, with Democrats carrying the issue.

If approved by the Senate and signed by the governor, the law would replace the present system in which names are carried on the registration lists for two years unless the registrant votes, registers again or files a change of address.

Legislators who argued against the bill said four-year registration would discourage persons from voting in off-year elections. And, they noted, House members are elected every two years.

But backers stated that more persons would be persuaded to vote at some time if the length of registration was extended.

A bill introduced Wednesday by Rep. Lucille McCollough, D-Dearborn, would automatically renew registration of eligible voters at the time they buy or renew drivers' licenses.

A second bill sent to the Senate would permit townships to establish three-man police forces or pay county sheriffs for protection.

The proposal also permits township officers to enforce state health, fire and traffic laws and to issue vendor and peddler licenses.

In other action, the House moved two bills into position for a final vote. One measure would allow a property owner to seek a court order granting access to neighboring property, if necessary, to make repairs or improvements on his own property.

The second bill changes appointment machinery of city boards that review tax assessment rolls. Citizen's complaints about tax assessments would go first to city review boards before being heard by a State Tax Appeal Board.

Under present law, city reviewers are also city representatives on county boards of supervisors. The legislation would permit cities to separate the functions because of the expanded scope of county boards of supervisors, said Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, one of the chief sponsors of the bills.

Receipts tax proposed

LANSING (AP) — A 10 per cent gross receipts tax on ticket sales to professional sporting events was among the measures introduced Wednesday in the House.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Martin D. Buth, R-Comstock Park, would require collection of the tax within 48 hours.

The treasury would keep 1 per cent of the funds and distribute the remainder to county treas-

Sirhan says presence At hotel was mistake

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan says his presence at the hotel where he shot and killed Robert F. Kennedy was an accident—due to his mistaken reading of a newspaper advertisement the day of the slaying last June.

The advertisement announced a pro-Israel parade, the "Miracle March for Israel" marking the first anniversary of the six-day war between the Jews and the Arabs in 1967.

The parade was scheduled for the next day but Sirhan, a Jordanian-born Arab, testified at his murder trial Wednesday he thought it was that night.

He said upon reading the announcement "The fire started burning inside me" and he set off for downtown Los Angeles "driving like a maniac."

"Did you have in mind to shoot Kennedy at that time?" asked defense counsel Grant B. Cooper.

"No, sir, I did not," Sirhan said.

Sirhan said he had come from a rifle range where he practiced with his .22-caliber revolver, had a snack with a friend and read about the anniversary celebration.

"That brought me back to the six days in June the previous year," Sirhan said, his voice rising in anger.

The fire started burning inside of me, sir, at seeing how these Zionists, these Jews, these Israelis or whoever the hell they were, sir, were trying to rub in the fact that they had beaten the hell out of the Arabs the year before."

Sirhan said he parked his car and set out to find the parade. He wandered into the brightly lit campaign headquarters of Thomas Kuchel, a Republican seeking re-election to the U.S. Senate.

There was talk "that there was a bigger party down the street at the Ambassador," Sirhan said.

"Curiosity forced me to go down there," he said. On the way, he testified, he noticed in a store a Jewish organization sign.

"Again that got me boiling because the main reason for me to be on Wilshire Boulevard was to see the parade," Sirhan said.

His gun, at that time, was still in the back seat of his car a few blocks away, Sirhan said. At this point in his testimony court adjourned for the day at Cooper's request.

Woman co-kidnaper Caught in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The kidnapers had directed rescuers to the spot after Mackle, a wealthy Florida real estate developer, paid $500,000 ransom. Practically all of the ransom money was recovered.

Dist. Atty. Richard Bell of DeKalb County, Ga., said he would institute proceedings to have Miss Schier brought to trial as soon as possible.

Miss Schier, known in Norman as Donna Wills, was arrested after she applied for a job as a nurse at Central State Hospital in Norman. A worker in the Oklahoma Bureau of Investigation's fingerprint division identified the fingerprints on her job application.

FBI agents converged on the restaurant and arrested the girl as she walked from the car hop section to greet a new-found boy friend, Connie Fox.

Her arrest surprised both her coworkers and the tenants of the apartment building in which she lived. Said one fellow tenant, John Ray:

"I thought she was a real upstanding Christian girl from a bad family situation. She's got my sheets and pillow right now."

Miss Mackle, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Mackle, was found buried but unharmed in a box about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta after an 86-hour underground ordeal.

Jesse was his only ninth child, so father prayed

By TABER COLLINS
Newspaper Writer,
Phoenix, Arizona

"Your wife is fine. It's a boy, but we have a problem," the doctor said.

Seven times during the past 12 years the strange-looking

JESSE

Each time my wife had been fine, the little one had been fine too. Six little girls, including a set of twins, and two fine boys. And now the ninth—Jesse.

I had trouble keeping my voice steady as I walked with the doctors through the swinging doors where I was introduced to the pediatrician. The two doctors then led me toward a large cubicle into which a glass-enclosed incubator was being wheeled.

Unlike the other babies in the nursery, Jesse was naked except for a diaper. He lay on his side and his breathing was like an overheated puppy panting desperately for air. A few irregular gasps, a shuddering sigh, then nothing.

A nurse reached in through the back and snapped her fingernail against the sole of his foot, once, twice; the baby jumped, gasped, and resumed his pathetic panting.

I looked at the doctors, open-mouthed in disbelief. They led me away from the window. "But suppose she isn't there when she stops again?" I pleaded. "She'll be there, there's always a nurse in that area," the doctor assured me.

My wife was in a deep sleep when I went to her room. I whispered to the nurses at her bedside to tell her I had been in, then started for home where eight little people waited anxiously.

How was I to explain what I didn't understand myself?

"Jesse is here," I began, trying to explain so that the small ones would comprehend as well as the older ones, "but the doctor doesn't know if your little brother will stay with us or go on to Heaven. All we can do is pray."

"What's the matter with him, Daddy? Is he sick?" someone asked.

"No, he's not sick. He just can't seem to breathe the way he should. The doctor is not sure yet just what the trouble is. So only the Lord can help Jesse now."

"Let's pray," someone said. We prayed.

As I sat in the hospital cafeteria the next day I heard three doctors discussing a rare case presently in the nursery. They spoke of a two-day-old baby suffering from Hyaline membrane disease, a respiratory ailment. Only one in a thousand survived.

I called the pediatrician's office and learned he was on his way to the hospital. When I finally confronted him with the startling conversation I had overheard, he confirmed that the baby discussed was ours.

He added that although there was absolutely no change as yet, every breath increased the possibility of hope. If Jesse's heart were strong enough to keep pumping without nourishment, his lungs would clear and he might live. Any food or liquid would either drown out the tiny breaths or shock his heart into stopping.

I do remember clearly the strangers who tried to console us by such remarks as, "Well, at least you have others at home"; or "It isn't as though this were your only one."

But that wasn't the point. The "others at home" have nothing whatever to do with the new one, and it is always as if this new baby were the only one... He was the only Jesse — the only ninth child, the only third son, the only new baby for whom we all had prayed right along with Mommy through the long nine months, when she was the only one suffering!

The night of the third day, the doctor reported, "It won't be long now." "What do you mean?" I asked, fearfully. "It has been 72 hours, Mr. Collins. We should know by tomorrow, certainly."

The ultimatum numbed me with its finality. As I slowly walked toward the nursery, I suddenly saw my wife rapping at the window.

My heart seemed to stop. Had the moment come? But then my wife was smiling and waving to the nurse, and looking at me happily. As I stared into the box, I could see no difference, but to her mother's eyes there was a change; a very slight change, to be sure, but my wife knew that Jesse's breathing was better. Within an hour he was able to take water from a dropper.

When we took him home three weeks later, he came as a special gift from God. A gift from one Father to another, from the Author of all love to the little ones who understood it best, and to the mother who knew he was hers, all along.

Jesse is still the ninth child, the third son, and will always be remembered as the prize we won, each and every one of us, alone, yet together, in faith and hope, by our ordeal of love.
